BURLINGTON INVOLVED IN BIG JOINING

Gigantic Consolidation of Northern Pacific, Great Northern and the C. B. & Q., To Be Effected Through Formation of New Holding Company---Would Embrace 28,000 Mile System.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The gigantic northwest railroad merger, involving the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy systems, will be effected through the formation of a new holding company which will lease the constituent lines, it was learned today.

The special committee which has the plan in charge has agreed upon all major points, but the details will be worked out next week at conferences here between members of the committee and other railroad officials.

No decision has yet been reached whether the proposed plan will first be submitted to stockholders for their approval, or presented to the interstate commerce commission in the form of a petition.

It expected that the plan will be sufficiently advanced after next week's conferences so that it can be submitted at once to the directors of the roads involved.

Thom Approves.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Approval of the prospective Great Northern and Northern Pacific merger was voiced today before the senate interstate commerce committee by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives.

In endorsing the Fess bill, which would lay down a national policy favoring voluntary mergers subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission, Thom said the tendency toward mergers under the existing law demonstrated the soundness of the voluntary system, as against the proposal incorporated in the Cummins bill to make consolidation compulsory within a five year period.

The Cummins bill was reported out of committee last session. The Fess proposal, introduced last month, is still before the committee.

BROOKHART EXONERATED

Iowa Senator-Elect Given Clean Bill By Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) — Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart, republican of Iowa, was exonerated today by the senate interstate commerce committee which inquired into intimations presented by Senator Steck, democrat, Iowa, that Brookhart was a "paid lobbyist" for the farm organizations and for Cyrus E. Wood, nominated as interstate commerce commissioner.

Chairman Watson presented to to the senate the statement read to the committee by Senator Steck withdrawing the charges and the conclusion of committee that in view of this development no further action was necessary.

Both Brookhart and Woods denied the charges before the committee. Subsequently Woods nomination was acted upon adversely, the committee hearing representatives of the southern coal states who opposed confirmation.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, expressed the view that the report was inadequate as a disposition of such charges as had been lodged against Brookhart. Norris asked Watson if newspaper reports on which Steck said he had based his charges had been examined by the committee.

Watson said one newspaper clipping had been examined but it contained no reference to the charge that Brookhart was seeking to further the Woods nomination.

COURTROOM, AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, arraigned before the jury of twelve who will pass on the charge of murder against the pastor, pleaded "not guilty" as court opened today.

Kirk claims that the action of McKelvie was illegal and that he had no power to cancel the action of Bushee.

MEXICANS DENY KELLOGG CLAIM OF BOLSHEVISM

AWAIT ACTION OF U. S. GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, Jan 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Developments in the situation between the United States and Mexico now are believed to hinge on possible action by the Washington government. Among the possibilities seen here are the withdrawal of the American ambassador and the lifting of the embargo on shipment of arms into Mexico from the United States.

Secretary Kellogg's declaration regarding communistic activities in Mexico aimed at the United States has drawn retorts from two high sources—Aaron Saenz, the Mexican foreign secretary, and Ricardo Trevino, secretary general of the regional Confederation of Labor, the dominant labor group in this country.

The foreign secretary asserted that Mr. Kellogg's statement before the foreign relations committee of the American senate did not prove the charge that Mexico was attempting to establish a bolshevist hegemony in Latin America.

Declares Labor Opposes Reds.

As for decisions taken by foreign organizations, nobody could hold Mexico responsible, he said, but it was necessary "energetically to reject those charges against the Mexican government, especially regarding its relations with Russia."

Senor Trevino replied to Secretary Kellogg in the form of a telegram in which he asserted that the Mexican labor movement was antagonistic, not friendly, to communism.

Federal troops pursuing rebel groups continue their movements to points of strategic importance and it seems established that they have been able to suppress the uprisings of the last week or two.

Will Deport Priests.

Pursuant to its belief that priests are inciting the Catholics to rebellion, the government has decided to deport all priests captured heading rebels. The war department is instructing all military commanders to send arrested priests to the capital whence, they will be sent

CONE INVOLVED IN ARGUMENT

Opposes Action Increasing Number Necessary for Roll Call.

Mystery Surrounds Bill Disowned By Supposed Introducer.

Some sharp talk was heard on the floor of the Nebraska house Friday morning, with Tremmor Cone demanding "pitiless publicity" and Bern R. Coulter denouncing obstructive tactics which he said would make the session last until July 1, before the chamber voted to change its rule and require five members to demand a roll call, instead of two.

Later, another scrap occurred on the question of adjourning over Saturday and reconvening Monday afternoon at 1:30, as proposed by Mr. McLellan. Mr. White (Garfield), Kendall and others wanted to hold a Saturday session. The rules of the house provide that it shall meet on the second and fourth Saturday of each month. After it had been brought out that there was little business the house could consider, the motion to cut out the Saturday session prevailed However, the chamber refused to quit at noon Friday, but took a recess until 2 p. m.

Mystery Over a Bill.

When introduction of new bills was taken up, Chief Clerk Corrick read one that had been handed in and labeled "House Roll No. 85," bearing the name of Representative C. J. Mitchell (Lancaster) as its supposed author. The measure provided that all of the 70 per cent of auto license money that each county now gets as its share should be turned into the road dragging fund, which would prevent any of it being used for road construction.

"There's some mistake about that bill," Mr. Mitchell announced from his seat. "I didn't send it up, I had nothin to do with its being drafted and I know nothing about it."

The bill had Mitchell's name typewritten on it in two places as the introducer. It appeared to have come from the legislative reference bureau where the solons have many

NASHVILLE, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) — The Tennesseean says today that Prof. J. A. Woodward, principal of the Helena, Ala., high school, whose secret bride of two weeks was drowned six weeks ago in Wilson dam backwaters in an automobile wreck near Lawrenceburg Tenn., held in Florence, Ala., on a charge of murder. Charles Battle, the girl's brother-in-law, swore to the warrant

The teacher's preliminary trial is set for January 19. Relatives of Mrs Woodward, and her attorney, Claude L Boyd, prosecuting attorney of the Tennessee Judicial circuit, have accumulated circumstantial evidence indicating, they said, that Woodward's version of the accident is false.

Mr. Boyd said a witness would be produced to testify that Woodward's clothes were not wet after the accident. and that a nearby resident would say the young woman was heard to scream before she was drowned.

Stole Examination Papers.

Woodward told persons on the scene that his bride was driving the automobile and that she dodged a dog and drove into the water He said he was nearly drowned.

Woodward, formerly principal of the Lawrenceburg public school, was convicted here in October, 1924 of breaking into the county court clerk's office and stealing questions for a county superintendent's examination he was to take. He was sentenced to six months in jail, but was pardoned by the governor.

MIDDLEWEST IN GRIP DEEP SNOW

As Much As Twenty Inches Falls In Parts Of Illinois.

Five Lives Claimed By Cold—Lower Temperatures Promised.

CHICAGO, Jan 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—A bright sun, whose cheeriness was not reflected in the thermometer readings, shone today upon a deep snow blanket over the middlewest and part of the southwest as the storm which caused the snowfall swept into the St. Lawrence valley trailed by lowered temperatures.

The line of zero temperatures ran as far east as Wisconsin and as far south as central portions of Iowa and Nebraska today, with the forecast that by tonight the influence of the cold would be extended.

Relief is in sight by tomorrow, however, in the upper Mississippi valley, with the warmer weather extending through most of the middlewest by Sunday, said the forecaster.

Another storm off the north Pacific coast, which was expected to trail the one speeding east, has remained stationary, but has caused precipitation in front of it as far eastward as the Rocky mountains.

Heavy Snow at Chicago.

In Chicago, where nine inches of snow was on the ground, the temperature was 6 above zero. Thousands of men still were at work clearing the streets.

Yankton, S. D., reported an even zero today. At International Falls, Minn., on the Canadia border, it was 27 below. Devils Lake was the coldest spot i North Dakota with 21 below.

The snow storm cost five lives in Chicago, but otherwise was hailed as a blessing by Dr. Herman Bundeson, health commissioner.

"Snow is the greatest air purifier," he said. "There was some talk of 'flu epidemic. The snow clears the air. Just keep dry and warm and have no fear.'

MRS. CHAPLIN PRESSES FIGHT FOR A DIVORCE

Prominent Film Actresses Face Possibility of Being Drawn Into Case of Comedian and His Estranged Wife ---Will Identify Alleged Associates If Demand Made.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The possibility that they may be drawn into the Charles Chaplin divorce case hung over the heads of "five prominent motion picture actresses" today.

Lyndol K. Young, counsel for the screen star's estranged wife, yesterday declared his client had prepared to furnish the names of the five women she referred to in her divorce as having "publicly and privately" associated with Chaplin.

Thus far the names have not come out, but they will be produced, Young said, if they are demanded either by the court or by Chaplin's lawyers.

Meanwhile Los Angeles warmed up to the case by showing such a liking for its details that a printed booklet in which Mrs. Chaplin's petition was given in its entirety has been sold. The copies brought 25 cents each The county clerk's office has been besieged with requests to see the petition that has been sequestered from the files.

Receivers of the Chaplin property appointed at the instance of Mrs. Chaplin had the books of the screen star under scrutiny today.

Seeks Share of Fortune.

Mrs. Chaplin is seeking a share of the comedian's fortune, estimated in her suit to total $16,000,000. Of this amount, she declares, $10,000,000 is community property. Under California laws the wife is entitled to an equal division of the community property. However, Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys point out that if her charges of extreme cruelty are proven, Chaplin is liable, under the divorce laws of the state, to be penalized to the extent of losing his share of community property.

W. I. Gilbert, one of the receivers, declared he intends to possess as much of the comedian's wealth as can be located before reporting to the court on the actor's financial condition. He announced that the receivers would visit the Chaplin studios in Hollywood today where an office safe, believed to contain accounts of the actor's income and expenditures, would be opened in the presence of attorneys.

After an inspection of the comedian's ledgers, the receivers plan to call on banks in Los Angeles where Chaplin and his associates are known to have transacted business and search all deposit boxes rented by either the comedian, Al Reeves, his manager, or T. Kono.

CLUB DELEGATES HEAR ADDRESS BY FREMONT PASTOR

No organization is stronger than the foundation on which it is built Rev. Ray V. Kearns, of Fremont, declared Friday noon at the luncheeon of the Kiwanis club, in urging Kiwanians to live for today and let the past take care of itself. The luncheon was held at the chamber of commerce and about 100 visitors from Iowa and Nebraska here to attend the annual conference of the district trustees were guests.

Live today and forget the yesterdays, they will take care of themselves, Mr. Kearns said, but while you are living build on a foundation of integrity. Building on any other base, he added, "would be building as on sands and Kiwanis would crumble. Any other foundation than service is selfishness which does not permit of progess."

President H. K. Burket presided and introduced Sterling Alexander, a past governor who presented C. W. Watson, present district governor with a governor's insignia. Mr. Watson in turn gave Mr Alexander a past governor's button. Before he presented the button Mr. Watson announced that forty-eight of the fifty clubs in the district were represented at the conference.

HOUSE ASKED TO INCREASE ARMY

Committee Overrides the Budget Proposal As To Strength.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.— (By the Associated Press.)—The house was asked by its appropriations committee Thursday to provide for a standing army of 118,750 men and to override the budget proposal of 115,000.

Presenting a bill to appropriate $366,000,000 for war department activities during the next fiscal year, the committee declared congress had "rather definitely indicated" its approval of the larger figure and suggested a congressional survey to design a balanced army, "if our financial situation be such as not to warrant larger outlays on our military army."

Although the bill's total is $736,024 below the budget estimate, it exceeds the budget actually by $2,763,976 by re-appropriating $3,500,000 made available last year.

Non-Military Items Included.

The measure, which would give the war department $11,655,000 more than it has for this year, provides $273,112,000 for military activities and the remainder for non-military activities, including Muscle Shoals, rivers and harbors projects and the Panama canal.

The committee added items not included in the budget estimates aggregating $8,185,000, but struck out estimates for new housing projects totalling $5,080,000 on the ground that they had not been authorized by congress.

The committee report pointed out that if an additional 1,248 men should be needed for the air corps, the army could manage on pay and subsistence appropriations recommended by the committee to expand its total enlisted strength to 119,998 by the end of the year.

Proposed Ration Increase.

The committee proposed an increase of the army ration to 40 cents, provided for the purchase of 1,500 horses as compared to 500 called for in budget estimates; allotted $400,000 to recondition the army transport Grant, laid up at San Francisco; gave the ordnance department an additional $700,000 for experimentation and coast defense installations, and provided $150,000 to manufacture 10,000 new gas masks; $100,000 for sea coast battery fire control developments and $361,000 to expedite construction work at West Point.

For the national guard the committee provided nearly $1,000,000 additional to cover fifteen days' summer training as compared to thirteen days estimated for by the budget, and also to insure forty-eight armory drills during the year.

It reversed the budget on active training for reserve officers, providing funds for fifteen days' training for 16,382 such officers, and restored the 4,000 cut made by the budget in attendance estimates for the civilians in camps next summer, putting the total up to 38,000 as it was for the present year.

The three-year rule in all sports is to be adopted by West Point military Academy.

BUTLER ASSAILS PLAN OF BORAH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Financing of election campaigns by the federal government, recently suggested by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho, as a way to prevent huge campaign expenditures, would result in control of politics by the government and denial to the people of freedom of franchise, told national and state officers of the Women's Republican club last night.

The tendency of political campaign managers, he said, is in the direction of decreased expenditures. He urged women to take the lead in educating the citizenship to vote.

HOUSE ACCEPTS WATERWAY BILL

Conference Report On Rivers and Harbors Is Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.— (By the Associated Press.)—The house Thursday adopted by a vote of 276 to 82, the conference report on the $71,000,000 rivers and harbors authorizations bill. It provides for purchase of the Cape Cod canal, improvement of the Illinois and upper Missouri rivers and for work on a number of other projects in all sections of the country.

Adoption of the report precipitated a discussion over whether house action constituted final action by congress. One group held the report still must be approved by the senate before it could be sent to the president. Representative Tilson, the republican leader, held this opinion as did Lehr Fess, the house parliamentarian.

Another group contended that inasmuch as the house had approved without change all senate amendments to the measure that further action by that body was unnecessary. Senator Jones, republican, Washington, chairman of the senate conferees, said that his view was that senate action was unnecessary and that if Speaker Longworth would sign the enrolled bill he had no doubt that Vice President Dawes would attach his signature without senate action.

BRIEFLY TOLD NEWS FROM PRESS WIRES

SIOUX CITY—(AP)—Full confession that he performed an illegal operation that resulted in his wife's death at their home in Barlow Hall, on Denison highway, eleven miles southeast of Sioux City, Wednesday night, has been obtained from Lester Metcalfe by Sheriff Paul T. Beardsley. Sheriff Beardsley arrested Metcalfe and placed a guard over the room. A charge, probably that of manslaughter, is being prepared. The confession was dictated by Metcalfe as he lay near death at the Methodist hospital as a result of two bullet wounds under the heart, self-inflicted in an attempt at suicide following his wife's death.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United States government for the first time on record is to confiscate and sell a private railway car under the national prohibition law. The steward pleaded guilty to t he ownership of the liquor and was fined $500.

ELROD ROMANCE ENDS IN DEATH

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—The starvation, due to dwindling finances, may have hastened the death of Charles Elrod, 28, Lewellyn, Neb., found dead in his room Sunday night was not denied by Judge B. T. Tankersley, in charge of the case. Post mortem examination revealed the young man had not eaten for days, doctors said.

Elrod gave up a job here with the telephone company to search for "Dexter Orten," fictitious lover, whom his sweetheart, Veda Bellefeuille, nineteen, high-school girl, created to "test" Elrod's love for her, she said Wednesday at the inquest into the death. The plan worked fine in love story magazines she said.

Miss Bellefeuille declared Elrod had just $3 at the time of death and had run up enormous bills for rented automobiles, with which he had scoured the countryside in search of "Orten," whose name Miss Bellefeuille later changed to "Keith Clayton."

There were two notes, one of which "for the law," said: "If we are found dead, look for Keith Clayton. He will be to blame," and the other read: "If we are found dead bury us together and say Charles and Veda, sweethearts forever."

Authorities were considering the possibility of murder, but suicide was given as the probable cause.

No poison or poison container was found near the body. Action was deferred until Saturday when examination of Elrod's stomach, sent to Iowa City for test of poison, will be finished.

The young man's father and brother, have directed that the body be buried here in accordance with young Elrod's wishes.

READY TO SEIZE PART OF BALLOTS IN PENNSYLVANIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—As the first step in its investigation of charges of wholesale fraud in the last Pennsylvania senatorial election, the senate committee directed to conduct the inquiry decided on Thursday to seize and transfer to Washington ballots cast in Philadelphia and Allegheny county of which Pittsburgh is the center. Ballots in 139 rural precincts also will be taken over.

It was in Philadelphia and Allegheny county that William B. Wilson, the democratic nominee, charged in a petition filed with the senate there were widespread irregularities which benefitted Representative William S. Vare, his republican opponent.

On the other hand, Vare who was elected on the face of returns, asked the committee to look into the returns from the 139 country precincts, in which he received only 480 votes.

Committee members estimated it would take several freight cars to transport all ballots and the accompanying registration and check lists to Washington.

To Take Over 1,400 Boxes.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The seizure of ballot boxes containing the ballots cast in the Pennsylvania senatorial election last November, ordered yesterday by the senate campaign funds committee will mean the taking over by the committee of 1,400 boxes in Allegheny county, of which Pittsburgh is the center. Eight railroad box cars, it was estimated, will be required to move the boxes to Washington.

Arnold Daly Loses His Life When He Is Trapped In Fire

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Arnold Daly, who rose from obscurity as an office boy to international fame as an actor, lost his life in a fire Thursday. The flames trapped him in his apartment in West Fifty-First street on the fringe of Broadway where he had received the plaudits of thousands and only a few blocks from the site of the old Herald Square theatre where he made his New York debut in 1895.

Firemen who hacked their way into Daly's fourth floor quarters found his burned body lying beside an arm chair in which he had been seen a short time before reading a book.

Although known to thousands, Daly could not be identified for several hours; the face that had recorded a multitude of real and simulated emotions was charred beyond recognition. Absolute identification was made by two bunions, known to Frank Whitcomb, his attorney.

Mr. Daly, who was 51 years old, was born in Brooklyn. He was educated at the Sacred Heart academy, which he left to become office boy for Charles Frohman, the producer.

He sprang into prominence in New York as the producer of plays of George Bernard Shaw, making his first stage appearance in 1892 with Fanny Rice in the "Jolly Squire."

He subsequently went on tour with "Married Not Mated" and "La Belle Marie." Other plays in which he was seen outside of New York were "Aristocracy" and "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

He made his New York debut as Chambers in "Pudd'n Head Wilson" at the Herald Square theatre in 1895. He was first seen on a London stage in 1898, when he played Henry Mackintosh in "Too Much Johnson."

From then on he appeared in numerous plays, in America and abroad. He also turned his hand to literary work, publishing "The Dominant Male" in 1921.

Mr. Daly was last seen on the legitimate stage in "Juarez and Maximillian" last November.

Meeting Held By District Leaders Of Kiwanis Club

Preliminary to the district executive board meeting today, leaders of the Kiwanis club of the Iowa-Nebraska district got together at the Lincoln hotel for an informal meeting and dinner Thursday evening followed by a special session of the finance committee. Thos present at the dinner which was followed by a general discussion of the club work over the two states, were: Henry K. Peterson of Council Bluffs, chairman of the finance committee; Ryan Dow of Fort Dodge, Ia., district treasurer; Sidney Taylor, of Sioux City, district secretary; C. E. Chubb of Algona, Ia., lieutenant governor; C. E. Snyder of Sioux City, past president of the club there; and Mr. Watson.

The finance committee meeting included Mr. Watson, Mr. Peterson, Mr. Dow and Mr. Taylor of the above group, with R. E. Other financial problems were discussed aand various measures passed.

Lackey Lectures On Nebraska To Bruner Bird Club

"The Geography of Nebraska" was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Prof. E. E. Lackey of the department of geography of the state university to the members of the Bruner Bird club at the regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening. With lantern slides Prof. Lackey told of the underlying bed rock and the topographical forms and features of the soil of the state.

He made particular reference to the necessity of adjusting human activities to the physical condition within the area, pointing out that the geography of the state does not permit Nebraska ever to gain anything from the soil but agricultural proceeds, but which, he incidentally stated, yields a far greater production than mines in many western states.

He spoke of the varying agricultural conditions in the east and the west and looked with favor on the possibilities of greater farming on the western plains. In the east there is the bed rock soil, then the sand hills and finally the erosional features of the far western plains, particularly Scottsbluff, Dome Rock, Chimney Rock and other notable remnants of the great plain that once spread over much of that part of the state.

Following this lecture, L. H. Watson, president of the club, announced the club will again turn to bird study with illustrated lectures on bird life by Prof. R. H. Wolcott and Prof. Myron Swenk. Many field trips also are planned for the spring. About twenty-five attended the meeting.

EXPRESS MEN GET INCREASE

Arbitration Board Grants 60,000 Employes Wage Advance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sixty thousand employes of the American Railway Express Co. Thursday were granted a wage increase of 2½ cents an hour by the United States board of arbitration. A unanimous decision of the board affects employes in every state. It is estimated the increase, effective Jan. 1, 1927, will cost the company about $4,500,000 a year.

The employes sought advances of 11½ and 12 cents an hour in requests submitted to the company in October, 1925. The matter was brought before the board by agreement between the express company and the American Federation of Express Workers, the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes and the Order of Railway Expressmen. Hearings were started here Dec. 31, 1926 and ended January 7.

The award grants an increase to all employes of 2½ cents hourly. Messengers in train service will get extra allowances of 1 1-4 cents an hour for handling United States mail or railroad baggage, and 3½ cents an hour for handling both mail and baggage. This increase is effective January 16, 1927.

During hearings on the increase in New York, witnesses for the company testified that government control of the firm, money inflation and unprofitable contracts prohibited return to pre-war prosperity and meeting of the demands of the employes.

Witnesses for the employes declared that dangers of their work warranted additional salary, and and that express employes were unable to send their children to school in the southern section of the country because of living costs.

CLEARING HOUSE ELECTS BURKET 1927 PRESIDENT

H. K. Burket was elected president of the Lincoln Clearing House association at its annual meeting at the Lincoln hotel Thursday. Carl Weil is the outgoing president. The other officers elected for 1927 term were: W. W. Hackney, jr., vice president; George W. Woods, secretary; E. F. Snavely, manager. Mr. Woods was the only officer who was re-elected.

Following a banquet which was attended by about forty members or representatives of the clearing house, annual reports were given including those of the treasurer and secretary.

Guests of the organization were Senator Banning of Union, Senator Smrha of Milligan, Senator Newman of Oakland, Senator Behrens of Beemer, Representative Jackman of Grant and Representative Newmeyer of Lyons. These men are the bankers of this year's legislature.

PLANNING FOR INSTITUTE HERE

Chamber of Commerce Sponsoring Business Talks By Stanley.

Will Also Hold Personal Conferences and Give Talks to Employes.

Final arrangements have been completed for the Institute of Business featuring Henry W. Stanley, which is being presented to the people of Lincoln by the retail trades sub-division of the chamber of commerce. The Institute will open next Monday morning, January 17, and will continue through Friday night, January 21.

S. A. Anderson, chairman of the committee having the work in charge, said today that two lectures on business subjects will be delivered on each of the five nights. The lectures will be held in the assembly room of the Chamber of commerce building from 8 to 10 p m. All of the night lectures are open to the public without cost as a contribution to better business methods on the part of the chamber of commerce.

In presenting the Institute, Mr. Sanderson said, the chamber believes it is affording the people of Lincoln an exceptional opportunity and it is confident that lasting results for good will be accomplished. Mr. Stanley is being presented complimentary to the business interests and every merchant and sales manager, as well as department heads and sales people, are invited to attend the meetings.

During his stay, Mr. Stanley will visit the business establishments of Lincoln, conferring with merchants and sales managers and giving inspirational talks to employes either by group or as a body. His time is available for this work without charge to the firms and those interested, who have not already dont so, should communicate with John Curtiss, assistant secretary of the chamber, who is directing the engagements. Talks in the business houses may be arranged at a time to suit the convenience of the management.

An interesting feature of the course will be daily classes in advertising each afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock and daily classes in window dressing between 10 and 11 o'clock each morning. These classes will be given in the chamber of commerce committee rooms No charge will be made for enrollment in either course

For several years Mr. Stanley has been associated with one of the larger business organizations in New York City, during which time he has conferred with thousands of merchants and has been confronted with business problems that have taxed his ability to the utmost He knows the problems of the merchant, not only in theory but from actual experience He has also been associated with some of the nation's greatest newspapers, both in the advertising and editorial departments. This experience has acquainted him with every phase of advertising, which he has termed "the dynamo of business."

Mr. Curtiss said this morning that there are still a few hours left open for personal conferences and store engagements. He suggested that business houses desiring a share in Mr. Stanley's time should communicate with him at once, before the schedule is completed.

BACON COST BIG.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Army statistical experts have figured that it takes 33,000 hogs to supply the military bacon ration for a year. An order for about one million pounds of bacon, specially baked and cured for army use has just been placed. The experts say that the average mount of bacon obtained from one hog is thirty pounds.

FEARED SUPERIORS IN RUM ROW PLOT

Coast Guard Commander Says Offered Bribe to Protect Liquor Runners.

NEW YORK, Jan 14. — (AP)— Coast guard conditions were such in 1925 that when a coast guard commander invited Martin T. Moran, also a commander at the time, to join a bribe scheme with rum runners Moran hesitated to report the matter for fear his superiors were also in on the conspiracy, he testified in Federal court yesterday.

Moran took the stand as a government witness in the trial of Edward and Frank Costello and fifteen other alleged members of an international rum ring

While he was commander of the C. G. 188 in 1925 he testified, John Stuart, who was then commander of the C G 126 told him about bribes the rum runners were willing to pay for coast guard protection and invited him to share in them. Moran said he refused to consider the proposition and later reported the conversation.

"Why did you not report it immediately," he was asked on cross examination

"I was afraid my superior officers were also in the bribe ring," he replied

Of the thirty-three men indicted in connection with the alleged activities of the ring, thirteen were members of the coast guard. During the two weeks the trial has been in progress several of the indicted coast guards have pleaded guilty, taken the stand as government witnesses to tell of their dealings with the rum runners, and have testified that they had since become secret agents for Bruce Bielaski, "under cover" prohibition chief

General Andrews received the news of the testimony with a laugh, saying that the only connection he ever had with rum runners was to get as many as possible of them in jail

Scotch Distillers Seek New Wine As Whisky Unpopular

GLASGOW, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The continued decline in consumption of whisky has induced the Scotch distillers to cast about for fresh sources of revenue

One of the principal Scotch firms has opened negotiations with Greece for the importation of "must" or currant juice. With this, it is reported, the distillers are intending to manufacture a new kind of wine to offset the decreased consumption of whisky.

POSTMASTER TO BE NAMED SOON

Civil Service Agent Says Department Plans Early Appointment.

Setting the final date for applications for the postmastership at February 4 with such little prior notice is unusual, stated B. H Clemmons, secretary of the ninth civil service district at St. Louis who was in Lincoln Thursday, but the usual thirty to forty-five days notice would delay the appointment so that the postmaster could not be ratified before the short session of congress closes in March, he explained.

Mr. Clemmons admitted that it is customary to reappoint the postmaster for the second term and could give no exolanation of why an examination was being called in Lincoln. He explained that an examination is subject to call of the postoffice department The actual selection of a postmast erfor cities of the first three classes is not under the civil service system any more, as it was in the past.

The present system which was installed by President Harding narrows the selection down to three men, thus eliminating the obviously incompetent and insuring the selection of a man who is capable of efficiently handling such a position, he said

Application blanks may be secured at the local post office. Already five or six forms have been taken out, according to Mr. Clemmons. After all applicants have been received an examiner will be sent here to question candidates and forty or fifty of the leading business men. From the list of applicants three are selected who are eligible to become postmaster. The salary of the Lincoln postmaster is $6,000 a year.

Mr. Clemmons said that his main interest in coming here was to secure enough applicants so that the selection would be from as capable a group as possible.

The requirements of candidates are:

Candidates must have been for at least five years, engaged in occupations in which they have demonstrated ability to organize, direct and manage business affairs to the extent required of a postmaster for Lincoln.

The applicant must have reached his thirty-fifth birthday and must not have passed his sixty-fifth birthday. These limits do not apply to World and Spanish-American war veterans

Applicants must be citizens and must have resided within the delivery of the lncoln office for a period of two years.

The examination is open to both men and women Veterans of the World and Spanish-American wars have five points added to the earned rating and time actually spent in military service is added to business experience.

There will be no written examination but aplicants will be rated on subjects of education and training and business experience and fitness as indicated in the application form and corroborated by personal investigation.

SHORT COURSE IN POULTRY CLOSES THIS AFTERNOON

The annual poultry short course closed at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon with judging of chickens under the direction of S. J. Marsden and O. E Shear, with students assisting. Officials feel that the present course has been one of the most complete and most successful ever offered Over 150 have attended the meetings.

Earlier in the day J. R. Redditt and J H. Claybaugh spoke on the poultry extension program being sponsored by the university. S. J. Marsden explained breeding methods and also spoke on the new methods of culling. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon he demonstrated judging of poultry.

I. D. Wood, state extension agent in agricultural engineering, was the main speaker Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Wood explained the Missouri type of poultry house and pointed out its advantages He declared several methods that could be used to rebuild old farm buildings and make them suitable for poultry houses He also showed the poultry raisers' plans for an ideal brooder house.

"Lights for Layers: Why, When and How," was the subject of J. R. Redditt's talk S J. Marsden explained caponizing and told of the profit to be gained from capons

"Capons have more render flesh than hens and roosters. That is why capons command higher prices," he said in explaining why poultry raisers should caponize young roosters. "It does not pay to caponize small breeds of chickens such as leghorns. The Jersey Giant and the White Rock are two of the best breeds."

Dr. L. V. Skidmore, instructor of animal pathology and hygiene at the college, and J. R. Redditt demonstrated methods of caponizing. The poultry plant furnished twenty leghorn roosters for practice work. Poultry raisers that wanted to learn how to caponize were allowed to conduct the operation under the direction of the instructors.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovereed a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, billious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

NEW NICARAGUA POLICY WANTED

Proposes People Choose Own President At Special Election.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Inauguration of a campaign of peace with the abolition of the idea of force in the dealings of the United States with Central American countries, was urged in the senate Thursday by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

As first steps in that direction, he proposed a special election to permit the people of Nicaragua to choose their own president and the submission to arbitration of the controversy with Mexico over its land laws.

With these suggestions, the Idaho senator concluded in characteristically dramatic fashion an attack of an hour and a half on the administration's policy in dealing with the Nicaraguan situation and in recognizing the Adolfo Diaz government, which he contended was set up illegally.

Abolish Force, Says Borah.

"Inaugurate a campaign of peace," thundered Senator Borah, "abolish the idea of force; try friendly relations, seek to establish amity; seek to get in touch with the masses, with the people themselves and we can establish a policy in Central America which will protect our interests and respect our rights and which will do that about which we are entitled to do—receive special consideration from those people.'

The address of the foreign relations committee chairman, however, started a senate debate that brought out opinions on both sides of the controversy, including a general defense of the administration by Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, a republican member of the foreign relations committee.

Elsewhere, too, the day's events saw the Mexican-Nicaragua embroglio develop in several directions. The house foreign affairs committee, afteer another fruitless debate voted by a majority of one not to call Secretary Kellogg before it and then suspended its session indefinitely.

Destroyers Replaced.

Two more American destroyeres were ordered to Nicaraguan waters but the navy department said they would replace two already there.

Further outbreaks of anti-American sentiment in Mexico brought no outward reaction from the state department beyond a denial of the recurring report that the government is considereing withdrawal of Ambassador Sheffield.

Coming to the present situation Senator Borah contended the United States should not have recognized the Diaz government because Diaz was a chief adviser of General Chamorro in his overthrow of the regularly elected government.

He also argued that the fact that Sacasa was out of the country—driven out by force—when Chamorro resigned ought not "to change a great national policy." He added that he was not so sure that it was not the duty of the United States to "take an army and carry Sacasa back to Nicaragua."

Address Long Awaited.

Senator Borah's address on the Mexican-Nicaraguan situation had been long awaited. He had maintained silence in accord with a tacit understanding with the administration that his views should be withheld under after the appearance Wednesday of Secretary Kellogg before the senate foreign relations committee, to amplify the administration's statement as given to the congress and the country Monday by President Coolidge.

At the outset, the Idaho senator declared this was not "a personal controversy" between the president and himself or between Secretary Kellogg and himself. He added that as he viewed the situation it involved "profoundly a question of national policy."

Detailing the history of events in Nicaragua since 1909, preceding the first American intervention in 1910, as he understands them, Senator Borah left no doubt that his information is at wide variance with that of the administration.

Disputing the theory advanced in some quarters that the Monroe Doctrine is applicable in the present situation, the chairman of the foreign relations committee argued that this doctrine should not be used to reach far beyond the mere protection of the rights or the property of American citizens and to interfere with the sovereignty of a people.

Claims Interference.

Senator Borah undertook to show that as far back as 1909, the American government or its agents had undertaken to interfere with the internal affairs of Nicaragua by supporting a revolution against the then President Zelaya and that after Adolpho Diaz first was made president in 1912 this country negotiated the internal loan and inter-oceanic canal treaties with Nicaragua.

Asserting that Diaz's government could not have lasted over night without the support of American marines, the senator declared that the United States had in effect made these treaties with itself.

"That transaction is as pronounced an act of imperialism as ever disgrace any nation with whom we have in the past been willing to exchange criticisms," he said.

Senator Borah said these treaties were obnoxious to a great part of the Nicaraguan people and that there could be no peace there until the United States could obtain the judgment of those people on them.

THREE ROADS REWARDED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Accident prevention work by the railroads of America in 1925 was rewarded here Thursday by presentation of medals to the heads of three roads whose accomplishments were most outstanding. The highest honor was paid to the Union Pacific system by award of the E H Harriman memorial gold medal to its president. Carl Gray, after announcement that not one passenger was killed on the 53,000,000 locomotive miles of the system in the year in question.

Today

Red, and Wicked Cannon Behind Dollars. Religion and Oil. Even a Little.

By Arthur Brisbane.

Calles, Mexican president, accused Catholic bishops of ordering Mexican uprisings that killed 75 protesting Catholics and 24 Mexican soldiers. He accuses the bishops of urging the faithful to march against the government under a banner inscribed. "Long live Christ, the king."

That banner has traveled a long way in the past and won many fights.

A practical, successful American from the city of Mexico, visiting Wall street yesterday, said: "If Calles had attacked the church only, he might have succeeded. If he had attacked American owners of Mexican oil wells only, he might have got away with that. But a man attacking religion and oil at the same time, is going to have trouble."

Young gentlemen, it pays to save. Even a little may be worth while. Mr Couzens, asked to pay $9,000,000 more income tax, had saved $900, when he met Ford. That gave him his chance. By and by he sold his interest to Ford for $30,000,000. If he hadn't saved the $900, he could not have the government suing him for $9,000,000.

Moral. Save something, if only a little.

Secretary Kellogg says the red and wicked communist bolsheviki are aiming at Latin America. They control and force the Nicaragua-Mexico policy, trying to destroy what they call our United States capitalistic imperialism.

They must be hopeful, wicked bolsheviki, for American capitalistic imperialism has only started. And as for Latin-Americans, whoever thinks communism, with its theory of dividing, will appeal to them does not know them.

When agents of Moscow tell Latin America to divide wealth, they will hear a loud manana reaching from the warm Rio Grande to freezing Terra Del Fuego.

The British, that send flying men with bombs and ships with heavy guns wherever British money or life is menaced, display increasing respect for President Coolidge, now that he tells our neighbors what they may and may not do.

The London Times thinks we are modifying the Monroe doctrine, claiming special rights of intervention, etc. Quite correct, we are.

The Giornale D'Italia says, "United States policy may be called one of authority and force," and adds, "When necessary there are cannon behind American dollars." Also correct. Dollars without cannon behind them are feeble little things, like flabby jellyfish. It is the cannon that transforms flabby dollars into vertebrate dollars.

A number of English villages are swept with a pox epidemic such as has not been seen in nearly half a century. 58 cases in one place, 15 in another. Like some Americans, many English people have decided that "vaccination is all nonsense." It is better than genuine smallpox, however, and fortunately a few smallpox cases always provide a wonderful cure for the anti-vaccination nonsense.

SMITH TO ASK SENATE SEAT

Will Present Credentials To Solons Early Next Week.

Illinois Appointee Says State Sovereignty Threatened.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Col. Frank L Smith of Dwight, designated by Gov. Len Small to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator William B McKinley and senator-elect for the long term as the deceased senator's successor, announced last night that early next week he will present his credentials to the senate.

"In deference to views and circumstances which were entitled to due consideration, I have, until now, delayed action upon my constitutional rights," Colonel Smith said concerning the controversy which has raged about his appointment and election. A senate investigation headed by Senator James A Reed of Missouri developed that a great part of the Smith campaign fund was contributed by the heads of public utilities over which as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission he had jurisdiction.

"A sifting of all circumstances and considerations leads all inevitably to the conclusion that further delay is unwarranted," he said.

He said to procrastinate further would be unfair to the people of Illinois and a discourtesy to the governor.

"Subsequent to taking the oath, I shall conform to whatever inquiry procedure is prescribed by the usual practice of the senate in such cases, asking only a full and impartial hearing," said the senator-designate's statement. "I shall do these confident that I shall measure up to every requirement of the office to which I have been both appointed and elected."

Says State's Rights Involved.

Saying that he was not unmindful of political conditions which appear to exist in Washington, Colonel Smith said these portended an assault upon the constitutional rights and state sovereignty of grave and fundamental import.

"The question is whether the state of Illinois shall be denied a sovereign right established by the law of the land," he asserted, "whether the United States senate, acting as a court, shall decide arbitrarily and without adequate hearing, whether caprice, personal animus or political motives shall set aside the supreme constitutional rights of a citizen and a sovereign state, with the floor of the United States senate the one place for adequately resolving these questions.

"My purpose, and my only purpose, in going there at this time is to uphold the dignity and sovereign rights of my state and I approach the task undiscouraged and conscientiously unafraid," the statement concluded.

The statement was the second Colonel Smith has issued since the storm broke about his head upon appointment by Governor Small a month ago. The first, reiterated repeatedly until yesterday, was "I have nothing to say. When the time comes I shall talk."

LEGION DINNER.

Fifty legionnaires and members of the auxiliary of the American Legion with their families attended the covered dish dinner at the legion club rooms Thursday evening. Following the dinner was an informal entertainment of games, cards and dancing. The legion suppers, to which all ex-service men are invited, are held every second Thursday of each month.

CONSIDER FITNESS CODE APPOINTEES

David Meeker Is Ready To Meet Investigators; Friends Say Charges Absurd.

The legislative committee appointed to investigate the fitness of the six men named by Governor Adam McMullen as code secretaries began its work Thursday afternoon behind closed doors, taking up first the qualifications of David Meeker, who has been named head of the finance department.

Although the meeting was closed to the public, it was open to those members of the house and senate who desired to attend. So many of them wanted to attend that the committee was forced to move from the small room occupied by the lieutenant governor, to the hearing room of the state railway commission.

The members of the investigating committee are Senator Griswold, chairman, Senator Robbins, Representatives Essam, Renecker, and Pitney.

Senator P. W. Scott of McCook, who is leading the opposition to Meeker's appointment, made his statement of his objections public Thursday before the committee met. He appeared before the committee later in the afternoon. The sum and substance of Scott's complaint is that Meeker's business and educational qualifications are insufficient.

Meeker has offered to appear before the committee, but he was not called Thursday afternoon. His friends claim that the Scott charges are so absurd that they do not need an answer.

Meeker told the newspapers that Scott's charge regarding lack of education are "too absurd to receive the slightest consideration and are unsupported by facts and belong to the category of abusive crimination."

"His attacks upon my character could be made by anyone who has no regard for the truth."

Meeker attributes Scott's opposition to a long standing grudge "against another person whom he hopes to reach through me."

Meeker expressed a willingness to have the committee make inquiries of those persons named by Scott as references to Meeker's qualifications.

Among others who appeared before the committee were Dwight S Delbey, retiring finance secretary, and E T Westervelt, member of the board of control. Both are said to have spoken highly of Meeker.

Chairman Griswold said Thursday that the committee would make a thorough investigation of the qualifications of everyone of the six code appointees.

Stop a Little Cold and there IS no Big Cold

SOME day scientists will know the cause of colds; but until that day comes we are sure of one thing: "To avoid a BIG cold stop a little one."

For all colds, little or big, the following treatment has been found effective in millions of cases: (1) A day's rest. (2) A laxative. (3) A light diet. (4) Vicks rubbed on throat and chest.

Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; at the same time Vicks acts like a poultice, drawing out the soreness and pain.

Use this treatment at the first sign of every little cold and big colds will be almost unknown to you.

KOBES IS AGAIN HEAD OF LEAGUE

Municipal Officials Make Crete Man President Of Organization.

KEARNEY, Neb., Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—F. J. Kobes of Crete, was re-elected president of the Nebraska league of municipalities at the concluding session of its session of its convention here Thursday.

J. W. Good, Chadron, was re-elected vice president and J. H. Kearney, secretary. Members of the executive committee are I. A. Gaines, Alliance; Dr. N. W. Jenkins, Grand Island, and H. L. Larson, Fremont.

The league went on record against the indeterminate franchise act under which public utilities operate and stood unanimously for retaining the rate making privileges. A statute will be introduced designed to license civil engineers in cases where the latter's salary exceeds $2,000.

Uniformity of bonding laws in the state is also to be sought, and the delegates went on record as unanimously favoring the zoning enabling act.

Nearly 100 out of town delegates attended Thursday afternoon, concluding what was considered one of the most successful conventions since the league's organization.

BUY TOO MUCH ON INSTALLMENT PLAN

Haverkost Says Deferred Payment Scheme Leads To Extravagance.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Installment plan buying was scored here Thursday by John Haverkost of Hooper, president of the Nebraska farmers' union state exchange, before the annual meeting of shareholders of that organization.

Americans are mortgaging the future by the huge purchases they are making on the installment plan, he declared, adding there is a tendency, especially among the farmers, to buy too many luxuries.

Mr. Haverkost gave statistics to show goods sold on this plan are many per cent above the cash prices. He added that the too free indulgence in installment buying by people in the east was felt in an extreme weakness in the cattle market a year ago because they had to forego eating to pay installments.

The stockholders endorsed by vote a suggestion by C. McCarthy, manager of the exchange, to purchase a site and construct a building in Omaha for all farmers union activities. Lease on the present quarters here expires in two years.

"This Is WJZ"—A Voice Millions Hear

Clear, resonant, appealing, J. Andrew White's voice is constantly safeguarded

AS the dean of radio announcers, J. Andrew White's voice is known to people throughout the land. Mr. White has won a large following of admirers because of the constant dependability of his voice, ever in perfect condition. He smokes Lucky Strikes, both for finer flavor and throat protection.

Lucky Strikes have become the favorites of men whose priceless voices thrill their audiences, as they have with the millions because, first, they afford greater enjoyment and second, they are certain not to irritate even the most sensitive throat.

But in addition, a costly extra process—toasting for 45 minutes—develops the hidden flavors of the choicest tobaccos and at the same time removes all "bite" and harshness.

AIRMEN MAKE ANOTHER JUMP

PUNTA RENAS, Costa Rica, Jan. 14 — (AP) — Maj. Herbert A. Dargue's crippled flag plane, New York, has advanced another notch down the Pacific coast of Central America in the 20,000 mile good will flight to South America and return.

Accompanied by the St. Louis, the New York arrived here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Amapala, Honduras, after skirting the coast of revolution torn Nicaragua. The other three planes of the expedition are remaining until tomorrow at Amapala, where they arrived yesterday morning from San Salvador.

The landing gear of the New York was smashed at San Salvador and she will be forced to rely on her seaplanes hull for landing and take-offs until she arrives at Panama where a reserve plane has been shipped from San Antonio.

Southern Violin "Champ" Challenges All "Comers"

J. J. J. Robinson and his fiddle, "Mary Ann."

YORK, S. C.—The world has its Fritz Kreisler, master among artists who draw the bow; Maine has her Mellie Dunham, who climbed to fame on the shoulders of Henry Ford; Georgia has her "Fiddlin'" John Carson, whose wizardry in playing melodies of the past is known the country over; almost every state has her champion violinist. And South Carolina has her favorite—John Joseph Jefferson Robinson, or simply "Three J" Robinson, as he is known in music circles from the Piedmont to the coast. He is 70.

He challenges Mellie Dunham and all other comers to meet him in a contest for natinoal championship.

Robinson has been proclaimed champion because he has won so many contests that lone now can be found in his native state who will compete with him.

Robinson's repertoire does not include classical concertos, but he plays countless sturdy and soulful melodies of the past—pieces that have been handed down from one generation to the next. He is in demand for virtually every country dance that is staged in the upper tier of counties in South Carolina.

He is a natural violinist, self-taught and trained. He began to play when he was seven, using a gourd instrument constructed by his father. It was strung with shoelaces. It was on this crude instrument that Robinson laid the foundation for the brilliant technique that has made him preeminent among South Carolina fiddlers.

Robinson now owns a violin that is valued at several thousand dollars. It is his constant companion. He calls it "Mary Ann." He says he would like an opportunity to try issues on "Mary Ann" with Mellie Dunham. South Carolinans believe he would win in a competitive event.

AVOCA BASKETEERS WIN FOUR CONTESTS

AVOCA, Neb., Jan. 14.—Coach Arthur Jones' Avoca high school school basketeers continued their winning streak this week by defeating Union and Weeping Water and pushing their record to seven consecutive wins.

The Avoca boys won over the Union five, 27 to 16, and defeating Weeping Water, 16 to 11. The Avoca girls trimmed Union, 18 to 10, and beat Weeping Water, 23 to 12.

Avoca plays at Elmwood Saturday. A Cass county tournament will probably be staged at Avoca during February.

'MA' IS STILL LIBERAL WITH HER PARDONS

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Governor Miriam Ferguson's clemency proclamation total today was 3,242, while the district attorney of Dallas county sought to join Harris and Bexar counties in discontinuing all criminal court sentences during the remaining five days of her term.

When informed that Governor Ferguson had maintained her daily average in issuing clemency orders yesterday by signing thirty-one full pardons and approving several paroles, District Attorney McGraw, asked Dallas County District court judges to postpone sentencing of criminals. The courts took the motion under advisement.

McGraw said he was "unwilling to take any chances" on pardons being issued to men recently convicted in his district.

The state legislature, which has before it a bill to repeal the amnesty measure passed in 1924, restoring the political rights of J. E Ferguson, husband of the governor, who was ousted as chief state executive in 1917, yesterday refused to confirm several appointments recently made by Mrs. Ferguson.

IMPROVEMENT IS SHOWN BY MINER

Legislator Not In Danger But Quiet Is Required For Considerable Time.

Representative Charles Miner of Ravenna, who was taken to a hospital Thursday morning after he had suffered a stroke of paralysis in his room at the Waverly hotel, will probably not be able to take any active part in legislative work during the remainder of the session. While his condition is not dangerous and he is already showing improvement, physicians think it will be necessary for Mr. Miner to avoid undue physical exertion or mental strain for some time to come.

He is expected to be out of bed within a week or 10 days, and will probably be able to take his seat in the house and cast his vote on bills, but will have to refrain from participation in any strenuous activities. Mr. Miner is chairman of the committee on education. Probably he will continue in that capacity, but the committee will not expect him to look over the detailed work which falls to it.

Friday morning, friends who called on Representative Miner found him in good spirits. His voice was clear and he could move the limbs on his right side, which were affected by the stroke. His facial muscles on that side, too, are under a fair degree of control. His son from Ravenna arrived Thursday and is among those attending him.

The house sent Mr. Miner a bouquet of flowers as a collective expression of its interest and sympathy.

Under constitutional provisions of Nebraska, if Mr. Miner were to resign his seat Governor McMullen could not appoint his successor. The place would remain vacant unless a special election were called to choose his successor. For that reason he will doubtless continue to hold the position of representative and when his vote is needed he will be on hand to cast it.

Husbands Need a Course In Vamping, Woman Lawyer Says

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(I.N.S.)—The honeymoon is over when the husband ceases to try and win his wife and takes her for granted; therefore men should take a post-graduate course in vamping, according to Marie Andersen, assistant state's attorney.

Miss Anderson, who has investigated hundreds of tranded romance and their causes, admonishes men to "Always be your wife's best beau!"

"Vamp each other and be happy," is her watchhword for young married couples.

In an interview to reporters, Miss Andersen agreed with Judge William J. Gemmill, a prominent divorce jurist, who advises wives to outvamp the other woman—or women—and win back their husbands, but she believes the system is just as beneficial and proper for men.

"If a man maintains the charming courtesy, the extreme solicitude for her comfort, and his adoring attitude, he'll never lose her love," she said.

"But when he comes home and begins to nag her for petty little faults, the romance is headed for the rocks. And when he seeks sympathy with other women, the jig is up.

"His interest is diverted elsewhere and his wife generally loses all her regard for him. Only by mutual vamping can marriage endure. Always give 'em a new turn!!

BILL REGARDING GAS AND COAL IS INTRODUCED AGAIN

An exact duplicate of the bill sponsored two years ago by Attorney General Spillman which is intended to give all cities and villages in the state power to go into the gasoline and coal business whenever the village board or council shall decide that there is a monopoly or any price-fixing combination existing which is controlling the price of such fuels, has again been introduced in the senate. It was thrown into the hopper by Senator J. C. McGowan of Norfolk, who was one of the chief supporters of the Spillman bill.

The Spillman measure was defeated by the senate two years ago and never reached the house. This year it is said the same bill will be introduced in the house as well as in the senate.

The introduction of bills was very light in the senate Friday morning, only four proposed measures being turned in by the members.

DISAPPOINTMENT IN LOVE AFFAIR CAUSES SUICIDE

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Arthur J. Blankmeier, 22, was found dead in the garage of his uncle early today, the result of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head from a 32 calibre automatic pistol.

He left two notes, the contents of which indicated that a disappointment in a love affair was the cause of the act, though no actions in the past few days gave the relatives with whom he was staying any indication of such intention.

He came from Germany two years ago and was engaged as a cook in a local restaurant.

ENDS SIEGE BY SHOOTING SELF

Michigan Man Withstands Score of Officers For Two Hours.

JACKSON, Mich.—Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Besieged by a score of deputy sheriffs, state police and local officers, who fired more than 1,000 rounds of ammunition into his home, Howard Konkle, railroad shopman, killed himself last night after withstanding the siege for more than two hours.

The officers were attempting to arrest Konkle for shooting his wife, May, 38, and a neighbor, Orville Case, both of whom are in a hospital, severely wounded.

Konkle's home, a small place at Vandercook lake, south of here, was riddled with bullets and saturated with tear gas, when the besiegers, failing to get a response to their firing, rushed the place. They found Konkle dead with a bullet wound through his heart. Powder burns on his shirt indicated the wound was self inflicted.

The shooting of Mrs. Konkle followed a quarrel. While the quarrel was in progress, Case arrived and was brought into the argument.

Long Wedded Bliss Just a Myth, Says An English Vicar

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Rev. Edward Neep, Southwark vicar, does not believe "those folks who say they have been married fifty years and never had a cross word."

The vicar, whose parish celebrates more weddings annually than any other in the London area, is quoted as making this declaration in giving advice to a group of newlyweds massed before the altar:

"Tolerance in times of temper and anger is the prime requisite for success in marriage," he added, "and I have great admiration for the man or woman who is the first to express regret and withdraw words said in haste."

DEADLOCK BROKEN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—eight day deadlock on a proposal to extend the Sheppard-Towner maternity act for two years was broken at the end of a three hour session of the senate last night by the passage of a compromise to extend the law until June 30, 1929, when it would be automatically repealed.

'Kit' Carson Really Loved Indians, Niece Declares

A portrait of Kit Carson by Will Cassidy, member of the Taos, N. M., art society. Inset, monument at Kit Carson's grave.

Christopher "Kit" Carson was born in Kentucky, Dec 24, 1809. When he was but an infant his parents emigrated to Howard county, Missouri, then a wilderness. Fond of the outdoors, "Kit" became the most expert shot in the entire settlement when he was only 15 years old. His father apprenticed him as a saddler but lured by the tales of the western prairies and mountains he joined a trade caravan to the Rockies where his colorful career among the Indians began. He died in 1868 at Fort Lyon, on the Arkansas river, his remains later being taken to Taos, N. M., a former home.

TAOS, N. M.—Kit Carson, Indian killer, trail blazer, desert guide and romancer, still lives in the memory of old settlers at Taos, home of the great adventurer, where he died May 20, 1868, aged 59.

The Rio del Norte runs its riotous course, Taos canyon gaps abysmally deep, Taos peak rises a good thousand feet above the surrounding mesas, blanket-garbed Indians stroll around the village streets, cattle hands and sheep herders lounge about the adobe home of the great Kit, a structure now used to house a desert restaurant. And down in a bramble-grown Carson family cemetery there stands a rough slab of granite in memory of Gen. Kit Carson, "greatest of American pioneers."

But the old-timers of Taos do not remember Carson as a general. They recall him, rather, as a charitable neighbor, an amiable conversationalist, a quiet old gentleman who hated killings and loved Indians.

Always Hospitable.

They point out the long angular adobe house which Kit built, and tell how "Old Kit" gave quarters and hospitality to more desert tramps, and "down-and-outers" and sick Indians, and homeless Mexicans than any other citizen of Taos, ever had done.

They remember Kit Carson as a man who would share his last half-dollar with a Mexican tramp, as a man who was too modest to wear his eagles after he had been officially commissioned as a major-general in the United States army—and not by "bang, bang, bang, went Kit's rifle and three more redskins bit the dust."

"The woman who knows more about Kit Carson than any one else in the United States" is a resident of Taos. She is Miss Lena Scheurich, niece of Christopher "Kit" Carson, and granddaughter of Charles Bent, the first territorial governor of New Mexico. Miss Scheurich's mother was adopted and reared by Kit Carson and Miss Scheurich knew him intimately both personally and from hearsay.

Miss Scheurich lives alone in a quaint little adobe residence, which was built for her by this same Kit Carson. She knits and fondles her over-sized cats and talks with little Indians who come strolling over to look at her many quaint pictures and to sample the interesting candies which she concocts. She talks and dreams of the splendid past.

"Christopher Carson was a great Indian diplomat," she relates. "He loved Indians, he saved hundreds of them from being killed by his skilful compromises. He was loved by the Indians. He visited and was received cordially by every village of the Pueblo nation.

"It was against his will that he took part in the Navajo subjugation in 1867. He did what he thought was his duty, and it was in this battle that he received an internal injury which wrecked his health and later resulted in his death.

Story of Death.

"A kinder, nobler man never lived. His neighbors here in Taos loved him, and they still revere his memory.

"I'll never forget Uncle Kit's death. He had been in poor health ever since he received his wound and shortly he developed a chronic throat trouble.

"One day he called for Governor Bent. The two talked over old times and daring adventures, and finally Uncle Kit said that he wanted to do one thing, more than anything else in the world—that was to eat an old-fashioned plainsman's dinner: roast buffalo meat, beef stew, tortillas, (Mexican cornbread) and coffee. Governor Bent granted his wish and they ate like kings, and talked of old times. Finally Uncle Kit said he wanted to smoke his old corncob pipe. He did, and they talked and talked until finally my Uncle Kit became drowsy, leaned forwards, and died—like a little child going to sleep."

MAN INJURED IN ELEVATOR FALL WANTS $50,000

A $50,000 damage suit was filed by Charles L. Clark today against the Nebraska Buick Automobile company, for injuries alleged to have been sustained when Clark fell down an elevator shaft in the Buick building last October 31.

On the date of the accident, Clark's petition states, there was an entertainment at the Buick building at Thirteenth and Q streets. Refreshments were served and that necessitated the transportation of boxes from the first to the third floor. He was told to get the elevator from the first floor, take it to the third and remove the empty boxes.

While trying to do this in a "careful and prudent manner," he fell 18 or 20 feet into the pit and struck on cement, the petition says.

A severe shock, concussion of the brain, fracture of the right arm and a twisted neck are some of the injuries he enumerates. As a result, he asserts that he had been physically impaired and disfigured for life. He says he was confined to a hospital for four weeks.

Fifteen Barrels Of Alcohol Sent For Army Trucks

Fifteen barrels of denatured alcohol was shipped from Lincoln Friday by United States Marshal J. C. McClung to the quartermaster of the seventh corps area at Fort Omaha. The alcohol will be used as an anti-freeze solution for army purposes.

This shipment marked the final disposition of the 32 barrels of alcohol seized by prohibition officers at Shubert, November 6, 1925. The other seventeen barrels had previously been turned over to state prohibition agents, and the postoffice departments of Omaha and Lincoln.

All of the 32 barrels were made unfit for drinking purposes by the addition of wood alcohol, pydryn and benzine.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY ROOF FIRES

Sparks from chimneys caused two roof fires Thursday afternoon and resulted in considerable damage to one of the residences, that of Mrs. Susie Williams, 1420 North Twenty-seventh street.

Mrs. Williams suffered slightly from nervous shocks when the fire was discovered, but at the home of Ferris Cooley, 2710 Starr street, where she was taken, she was reported Friday morning to have recovered.

The fire burned one side of the roof completely and spread into the attic, threatening the living quarters, before it was discovered. The damage was estimated at $150.

The other roof fire was at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson, 1817 North Thirty-third, where the damage was slight.

Birthday Greeting Comes Thousands Of Miles to Bell

"Birthday Greetings"—these two words sped thousands of miles by air and wire to County Assessor O. C. Bell of Lincoln recently on the eightieth anniversary of his nativity.

The message was sent by Marietta Minor from the steamship H F. Alexander midway between Seattle and San Francisco. Picked up at Seattle, it was flashed over the telegraph lines to Nebraska. Mrs. Minor is a niece of Mr Bell.

Rogers Expresses Belief In Henry Ford Motor Stock

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Will Rogers has confidence in Henry Ford and is willing to invest $100 in the Ford Motor Co. right now, he told attorneys in the $30,000,000 tax suit centering around the 1919 incomes of nine former minority stockholders of the company.

Rogers dropped in at the hearing and listened with interest to the reading of a stipulation describing how Mrs. Rosetta V. Hauss, sister of Senator James Couzens, invested $100 in the Ford company in 1903 and sold out in 1919 for $260,000.

As Rogers came out of the hearing most of the lawyers and spectators were waiting for him in the hall.

"What I came for," Rogers told them, "was to express my confidence in Henry Ford. I still believe in him. I'm willing to put $100 in his company right now and go right along with him. I'm going to tell him so this afternoon when I see him."

"There may be some question about the Ford Motor Co. profits in the past, but now that I see all you fellows, I know who'll get the next dividend," was Rogers' parting sally to the group of lawyers.

A NEGRO LAWYER FAILS TO COLLECT

Chicagoan Sought $25,000 From Pullman Company For Alleged Refusal To Sell Ticket.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—An effort to collect damages from the Pullman company for refusal to sell tickets to a negro while at the same time such tickets were sold to white persons failed today when the interstate commerce commission held that the section of the law under which an action was brought could not be violated by such a refusal.

The commission took the position that the refusal was not a discrimination under Section II of the commerce act, since it did not involve any situation by which one person obtained transportation for less than another.

A complaint made by J. P. Harden, a negro lawyer of Chicago, seeking $25,000 damages from the Pullman company on the ground that it refused to sell him accommodations, was dismissed.

The Pullman company, at the same time, denied that its agents or employes were ever authorized or instructed to refuse Pullman accommodations to negro passengers.

Harden alleged that he attempted to buy a Pullman berth from Atlanta to Chicago on July 7, 1923, and that the ticket agent and the Pullman conductor on the train both refused to make the sale. Both of these men testified they had frequently sold berths to negroes and had no recollection of refusing to make such a sale at any time.

THE BOGY MAN.

Harvey Newbranch of The Omaha World Herald, in convincing fashion, exposes the folly of the state department's attitude of intervention in the domestic affairs of Nicaragua.

It follows on the heels of Secretary Kellogg's explanation of the inspiration for American meddling Mr. Kellogg has fallen back upon the traditional bogy to win support for his blundering and stupidity from an unsympathetic and critical public. He has uncovered the ghost of bolshevism, actively at work in America's southern neighbor and with a final objective for a concerted drive in the United States.

He discloses as his reason for dispatching marines to Nicaragua a press report sent out some time ago of "the spectre of a bolshevist hegemony" in Latin America, incited from Moscow and Mexico City, threatening the security of the Panama canal, of the oil, fruit and lumber interests in those countries and extending even to this country.

That has been a very successful maneuver in winning popular support for foreign policies in the past It may not appeal to public fancy so strongly at this time for on innumerable occasions, it has been shown that the nervousness and apprehension of certain Washington officials lacked substantial foundation More and more the American people have come to believe that this device of the state department in calling up the ogre of a fearful conspiracy against democratic institutions of government in the United States is but a sly gesture to excuse a plain, inexcusable case of bungling. And notwithstanding Mr. Kellog's fervent declaration that the steps which have been taken by the United States in this neighboring land have been fully justified by the course of events, it has been evident from the start tha public sentiment in this country is not back of the secretary of state.

All of this search into motives responsible for this sudden crisis in Nicaraguan and Mexican affairs, is futile so far as results in this particular case is concerned.

The damage has already been done.

America has gotten another black eye, her standing and prestige among her southern neighbors has been seriously impaired, and it will take years to undo the mischief.

Mr. Newbranch very clearly foresees the consequences of Secretary Kellogg's impulsive and intempered action in the following comment from the World Herald:

> The situation is one that promises to keep our state department in hot water for many years to come. It is one that promises to play hob with our large and profitable trade with Latin America, and to make the position of our investors and exploiters in its countries less rather than more secure. It is one, furthermore, that will bring rejoicing to the hot hearts of all enemies of our democratic theories, of all scoffers at our peaceful and altruistic professions, in every land that is seething with revolt against democracy. If bolshevism or fascism needed anyone to do it a service, Secretary Kellogg, though farthest from intending it, has cheerfully obliged.
> The question whether the course upon which we have embarked was a necessary one is water that has run under the bridge We are committed to it. The administration attended to that before congress was permitted to know why, how, or what. Senators, representatives, the press, may indulge in a little raving, but in the end we shall all have to follow the flag.

Perhaps Mr. Kellogg and those who follow him will think twice before they again permit interests with heavy holdings in oil, and lumber and fruit to place Uncle Sam in the embarrassing position which he now finds himself.

CAUCUS METHODS IN LEGISLATURE.

Some members of the Nebraska house are reported to be displeased with the places alloted to them on standing committees. The dissatisfaction is not confined to members of the minority party, who must be humbly thankful for whatever they get, but also exists among a considerable portion of the g. o. p majority. In fact, there is more of it on the republican side than on the democratic.

The chief criticism seems to be that the members of the committee on committees grabbed for themselves nearly all the best chairmanships. There are 13 of them and each was made chairman of an important committee as follows:

Finance, Essam; judiciary, McMasters; agriculture, Coulter; roads and bridges, Staats; cities and towns, McKay; education, Davis; revenue and taxation, Sprick; state institutions, Miner; claims and deficiences, Ough; banks and banking McLellan; miscellaneous subjects, Bailey; live stock and grazing, Rundle; school lands and funds, Johnston, (Antelope)

Besides these chairmanships, members of the selective committee assigned others of their own number to several of the leading committees.

Altogether, 5 of them are on the roads and bridges committee, 4 on finance, 3 on cities and towns, and 2 each on judiciary, education, and reveune and taxation.

Three of them are placed with Speaker Rodman on the rules committee, which dictates all procedure in the chamber. One goes on each of the following groups, presumably representing his own choice: Insurance, privileges and elections, telephone and telegraph, medical, engrossed and enrolled bills, and printing.

The caucus system of organizing the legislature in advance is responsible for these results. Solons who have served before realize that in order to get what they want it is necessary either to be elected themselves to the committee on committees or help others to get upon it who will look after their interests. Consequently, there is always a great deal of logrolling and scrambling in making up the personnel of that body.

Perhaps the most absurd feature of the whole system is the way the chairman of the selective committee elects himself. A tradition seems to have been accepted that whoever draws up a call for the organization caucus of the majority party is to be elected chairman of the caucus, and that this automatically makes him chairman of the committee on committees and floor leader in the house. Some old member who is onto the ropes always shows up beforehand with the call in his possession and thus obtains the chief post of vantage without having to fight for it.

Of course, such a system is neither democratic nor fair to the members in general. It ought to be changed. But this year it was made worse instead of better. The republican caucus, without a word o protest from any member, voted to change the rules of the house so that the selective committee should not only assign all representatives to standing committees but should also name the chairman of eacl committee. Heretofore, the election of chairman was left to the membership of the committees.

Those who are now complaining about getting the small end of the deal should have spoken up sooner They really are getting just what they voted for. S long as members of the majority party meekly submit to caucus dictation in everything they can expect to be treated just that way.

The selective committee and its members can hardly be blamed for taking care of themselves first. They merely played the game according to its rules an won. It is the system which is at fault and should be corrected.

AN EXPENSIVE UNDERTAKING.

It will require an expenditure of fifteen billions of dollars to properly electrify the farms of the country, according to a survey which has just been made by Pynchon & Co. There are six million farms and it is stated 93 per cent of these are now without electricity. Considering the enormous outlay, which will be required, it will of course be several years, even under the most favorable conditions, before all of these can be equipped for receiving and using current.

When one takes into consideration, however, the tremendous growth of customer ownership since that plan was first introduced, the possibility of the necessary capital for such expansion being acquired seems very bright. In a little over a decade more than a million customers of public utilities have been added to the list of stockholders, and from these more than a billion dollars of new capital has been secured.

In 1902 only $628,000,000 was invested in the electric light and power industry, according to the United States census report, but by 1905 the investment was more than a billion dollars. Sixteen years later it had crossed the five billion dollar mark and at the beginning of this year it was $8,400,000,000. Gross revenues have similarly increased from $86,000,000 in 1902 to a billion twenty years later and to a present annual rate of $1,684,000,000.

The report made a short time ago by the rural service committee of the National Electric Light association listed forty-six different applications of electricity in actual use on farms and in farm houses. With these possibilities in sight it seems certain that the progressive farmer will be just as quick to avail himself of current when it is within his reach as are the dwellers in the towns and cities.

But although electrification of farms has thus far not advanced to any considerable extent, new records were hung up in the electrical industry during the past year. Gross revenues of the utility companies aggregated $1,684,000,000 and new financing reached a total of $1,389,000,000. It is expected that the present year will exceed 1926 in both of these particulars. Production of electricity in the country during the past year exceeded that of the preceding twelve months by approximately 11 per cent.

SAVE THE WILD LIFE.

It is a public-spirited impulse which inspires the members of the Nebraska chapter of the Izaak Walton league of America to offer a plea for the conservation of wild life in Nebraska. Selfish interests would dictate that they should be permitted to go about their hunting and fishing unrestrained. Many of them are old and seasoned hunters, with only a few years left in which to enjoy the outdoor sport. They are looking ahead to the generations who will not have an opportunity to hunt and fish unless something is done to stop the wholesale destruction of game in this state.

The situation is really serious.

Old hunters in the sandhills region, where duck and prairie chicken and grouse were so plentiful a few years ago, report that a great change has come in the last four years. Game is rapidly disappearing under the combined assault of a greatly increased number of hunters and the automatic. The hunters of last fall brought back reports of a scarcity of chickens and grouse, where the birds were formerly to be found in abundance. It will not be another decade before the sharp, staccato cry of the prairie chicken will have been stilled entirely in their opinion unless the birds are given a chance.

One of the first bills introduced at the present session of the Nebraska legislature grants the prairie chicken and grouse an armistice. It is a measure sponsored by Representative Wildman, declaring a closed season on prairie chicken hunting until 1929—and limiting it to two weeks thereafter. It is a measure which desires support. It will take two years for the prairie chicken to make up the loss in numbers in the last two years. Unless some action of this character is taken wild game in Nebraska will become extinct.

AMERICA'S GOOD FORTUNE.

Even the most isolated and sparsely settled regions of America have their telephones. In the older and more thickly populated communities, telephone service is regarded as a necessity. Seventy percent of the homes in middle western cities have their phones and practically every farm home is connected with its neighbors by wire

Recent tabulations by the American Telephone & Telegraph company reveal that the United States, with 16,072,758 telephones has 61.73 percent of all the phones in the world. With 14.2 phones for every 100 people, it leads all nations in the world. Canada has a development of 11.6 telephones per 100 people, but Great Britain has but 2.8. The highest showing among European countries is in Denmark with 9 telephones to every 100 people, Norway with 6.1 and Sweden with 6.9. There are only 6,895,365 telephones in Europe and 802,408 in Asia. Each of these continents have a population several times greater than that of North America.

Eighty-one percent of the world's automobiles are owned in the United States. If the list of all of these modern inventions which have added so largely to the comfort and pleasure of life was closely scanned, it would be found that people in the United States possessed them to a much larger degree than the inhabitants of the older countries of Europe and Asia. In fact no race has so generally had the comforts and conveniences placed at its disposal as the American people.

A BIT OF HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

Is there anything more aggravating to hear than "why don't you do," so-and-so from a person who has not lifted a finger to help?

Perhaps the very method suggested has been tried and retried as well as many other different ways. But does that interfere with the blithe reco mendations? Not at all.

The "why don't you do?" man or woman always thinks his or her way best.

And there is never any dearth of "why don't you do" assistants.

Instead of "why don't you" say "let me help."

It is quite another to ask "what may I do to help you?"

Just that little attitude of confidence in the one who is trying to accomplish something is often of more assistance than anything else.

The "why don't you do" sounds like a rebuke—you ought and didn't.

Be thoughtful of your associates both at home and in business.

Perhaps you don't intend to appear superior but you have an unfortunate way of expressing yourself.

Tact is a good lubricator when real harmony and accomplishment are sought.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

Answers to Mothers.

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.—Jewish Proverb.

Protrusion of the Ears.

Mrs. K.—Protruding ears are not uncommon in childhood. As the head grows the ears usually assume a nearer position to the head. Babies should not lie on the side with the ear turned under, and mothers must see to this. If the ears are prominent, there is no doubt that a net cap or simple apparatus does help to improve the condition.

As a baby, with or without prominent ears, has to lie asleep a good part of the time, and a cap may be uncomfortably warm in summer, a strap of adhesive, one-half inch wide, extending out on the cheek bone about one-half inch, over the ears and on to the scalp (about two inches under the hair), may be used. This strap can be left on for four or five days, and the wash cloth can be gently slipped up behind the ear to keep it clean, and a little petrolatum or oil can be applied to keep it from chafing. When the next strap is applied, apply it in a little different position.

Children should not be allowed to wear their caps and hats in such a way that the ears are out and forward.

Ears that are so prominent that they are deformities can easily be operted on by a skillful surgeon

Bowlegs.

Mrs. L—The mild forms of bowleggedness in children are very often outgrown. The markedly bowed legs are most always due to rickets, and these may have to have casts or braces. These, of course, are only of use while the bones are growing and are still more or less soft. After the bones have hardened in a deformity, nothing but surgery will remedy it.

Please take your child to a children's specialist or to a clinic to see if it is necessary for her to have some apparatus on her legs. Naturally, you must see to her hygiene: plenty of outdoor life, fresh air in her sleeping and living room, the proper nutrition, etc.

(We have a list of books on the subject of child feeding You may have this by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.)

Crying Babies.

Mrs. F has a baby of eight months who cries almost constantly. Aside from some undernourishment, he does not seem to be sick. She is giving him nothing but the breast. She herself is undernourished, and she believes that her milk is not sufficient.

Not knowing more than you have told me, I think you are right, Mrs. F. Baby is hungry, and his crying is the only way of telling you that. And the more he cries, the hungrier he gets! for crying increases the food needs of the child, just as exercise increases the food needs of the adult. It is estimated that the baby who cries more than normal needs at least 10 per cent more food than the normal baby.

Then, you should build up your own weight and general health, also, Mrs. F., to improve the quality of your milk. I suggest you send for the booklet on gaining and reducing and the article on Diet during Pregnancy and Nursing. (Enclose 10 cents in stamps in addition to s.a.s.e. for the booklet.)

Meanwhile, begin to give your baby complementary feedings of cow's milk (complementary feedings accompany the breast feedings). Begin by giving half milk and water, boiled together for four or five minutes; then increase the milk and decreasc the water an equal amount every day until, in a week's time he is getting whole milk. Give him some of this after you nurse him, as much as he is able to take, probably three or four ounces.

Has he been getting orange juice, or if you can't get oranges, strained tomato juice or raw cabbage or carrot juice, for the anti-scurvy vitamin? He should be having three or four or more tablespoonfuls of one of these each day. If he hasn't he may be suffering from scurvy. At his age, he should also be getting strained cereals and vegetables and fruit pulp and egg yolks, and some dry toast. But send for our list of books on modern child feeding, and buy one for specific directions. (See answer to Mrs. L. above.)

Are there no physicians or baby clinics in your town?

Tomorrow—Regaining the Girlish Figure After Childbirth.

My dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible. If they are of general interest. Is Earth Its Own Climate Maker?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

Dr. W. J. Humphreys, of the Weather Bureau, who is a man of originality of thought and observation, not content with mere "authority" in scientific opinion, is reported as affirming that the sun has nothing to do with determining the climate of the earth. Dr. Humphreys, as professor of meteorological physics, himself ranks among the authorities on that subject, and his affirmation that the earth has produced its own climatic changes through natural factors, is very interesting.

What a nice picture of our delightfully capricious planet this view offers! To be sure the earth's caprices require very long periods for their exercise, as reckoned by our measures of time, but we may recall Emerson's dictum that "the great lesson of life is to believe what the years and the centuries say against the hours:" only in the vistas of science we should believe the millenia and the anni magni against the years and the centuries.

The underlying considerations adducted by Dr. Humphreys are of course of a geological character. Three variable elements enter into play. One of these is the change of level to which the continents have, apparently always been subjected Another is the apparent long range periodicity in volcanic phenomena, which it is held have a great influence up the state of the atmosphere.

Then there are the great oceanic currents, conveying either cold or warm water along the coasts of the continents, and thereby exercising a very great influence upon climate, as we see today, notably in the case of the Gulf Stream and the Labrador Current.

The globe is subject to internal strains which at times manifest their tremendous power by increasing the elevation or inducing a lowering of a level of whole continents. Any considerable increase of elevation, together with the formation of lofty mountains, must bring on an attendant cooling of climate. Go up on a high mountain on a suffocating summer day or take a high ride in an airship if you want convincing practical evidence of the effect on temperature of increased elevation above sea level. Or simply look at the eternally unmelting snows that clothe the summits of all very lofty mountains.

No doubt a great increase of land surface during a long period would cause a widespread lowering of temperature, because not only would the mean elevation of a vast area be increased, but glaciated mountain ranges and peaks would be formed, volcanic forces would be released, and the atmosphere would become blanketed with thick clouds of dust and volcanic gases.

The influence of volcanic clouds was formerly not so well understood as it has come to be in recent times. The famous "dark day" in New England, and the "year without Summer" have been plausibly accounted for as having been induced by the spreading of volcanic dust through the atmosphere.

The long line of volcanoes stretching out along the axis of the Aleutian Islands has been a potent factor at times in changing the North American atmosphere with fine dust which effectively obstructs the solar radiation.

According to Dr. Humphreys, "every thick veil of volcanic dust appreciably lowers the temperature. This (if permanent for a long period) would lead to a great extended snow period during every season of the year, and this cooling would be intensified by thinning the blanket of water vapor around the earth."

All these things are undoubtedly so yet it would be going too far to affirm that variations of the output of radiation from the sun have no influence upon the earth's climates. The sun is certainly a variable star, and no less certainly it is the one great source of heat, light, and other forms of radiant energy for the earth.

Geological activities may alter the conditions under which the solar radiation s received and distributed, just as changes in the internal arrangements of a house similarly affect the utilization of the heat from a furnace but if the furnace burns irregularly the temperature of the house responds to such variation, whatever the details of heat distribution may be.

Big Men Were Henpecked.

(New York Evening World.)

The henpecked man can scarcely be classed as a product of modern times. Historians relate that many of the world's most famous men, including Napoleon, Lincoln and Socrates were henpecked. One of the letters written by Napoleon to his wife Josephine, ends with the postscript:

"A thousand kisses—as burning as yours are frosty."

Lincoln, it is said, was henpecked because he was too shy. Count Montgelas, the German biographer of Lincoln, declares that Lincoln's wife loved him superficially, her own selfish ambitions predominating, adding that she constantly pecked at him and almost drove him mad.

The duke of Marlborough, one of Winston Churchill's ancestors, and acclaimed as one of the greatest warriors of his day, was madly in love with his wife, who, however, nagged him all the time. In 1704 he wrote to his wife on the eve of a battle:

"I'm not nearly as much afraid of my 60,000 foes as I am of you when you are mad at me" Next day, with Prince Eugene of Savoy, he won a big victory over the forces of Louis XIV of France.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By Will Rogers

Some people like things because they are new and some people like things because they are old. Somehow, it seems to me that it don't make any difference whether they're new or old, as far as that's concerned. It a chair is good to set in and looks like it would last a long time with not very much expense for upkeep, and still ain't ugly, I should think it'd be a pretty likely piece of furniture, whether it was made yesterday or the day before Tutankhamen lost his job in Egypt.

But one hired girl busted a platter when she was cleaning out the cupboard; and the lady of the house was so scared that she didn't hardly have time to get mad. She gave a gasp and set down on the floor and said, not very loud:

"Oh, Margaret, you have broke the platter! It was two hundred years old!"

"Well," says Margaret, "that puts me at ease again. I was scared too, thinking maybe it was a new one."

Must Be Our Climate.

(Fairbury Journal.)

At the Harbine bank Monday, when the sun was shining brightly and everything was lovely in Nebraska, no blizzard nor nothing, the writer was shown an affidavit made out for the purpose of securing a widow's civil war pension for Mrs. W. H. Avery. Mr. Avery, who served in the war of the rebellion, died November 20 of this year at the age of eighty-nine. This affidavit was signed by I. N. Thompson and Julia Thompson his wife. Mr. Thompson is eighty-eight and his wife eighty-six. It was witnessed by A. C. Wheeler, eighty-seven and H. F. Hole, eighty-four.

All of these people have lived in this climate for more than fifty years. The affidavit stated that Mr. and Mrs. Thompson knew Mr. and Mrs. Avery, knew they were married at Ridge Farm, Ill., in 1859, fifty-seven years ago, and that they had lived together as man and wife until the death of Mr. Avery. This is required by the government before adjusting the pension.

Going out of the bank, a little way down the street, we met Gen. George Shook, captain of the Fairbury Near-Salvation Army. General Shook had an axe over his shoulder and a heavy rope in his hand. Asked if he were going off to hang somebody, he said, no, he was just going down toward the river to grub out a tree. Mr. Shook will soon be eighty-six years of age. It must be our climate.

U. S. GUNBOAT HAS DEPARTED FOR SHAMEEN

CANTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)— British and foreign authorities last night started preparing elaborate defenses for Shameen, the foreign settlement fearing a threatened attack.

Gunboat Leaves.

Dispatches say the Chinese workers in the hospital for the insane at Canton, which is in charge of an American doctor ,are manifesting strike tendencies.

Say Situation Quiet.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14.—(AP)— A wireless message from Hankow today asserted news dispatches were being altered there before transmission by local authorities to convey a totally wrong impression. It added that the situation was quiet.

Warns of Counter Revolt.

HANKOW, Jan. 14.—(AP)— The Kuomintang, or nationalist party, backing the Cantonese in their fight to put China under unified control, was set forth by J. Borodin, soviet Russian political advisor to the nationalists, as the power which eventually "will relieve oppressed people of the earth." He made the statement in an address at a mass meeting here last night.

Borodin warned the throng against the possibility of a counter revolution against the nationalists.

The meeting was in the form of a reception to General Chang commander-in-chief of the southern forces. General Chang and General Galhin, his Russian advisor, also spoke.

Although evacuation of foreigners from Hankow. Kiuklang and other points down the river from here was carried out with a minimum of delay, the British authorities were confronted with difficulties in connection with the general evacuation order issued in respect to all British subjects in the interior of Szechwan, Hupeh and Hunan provinces.

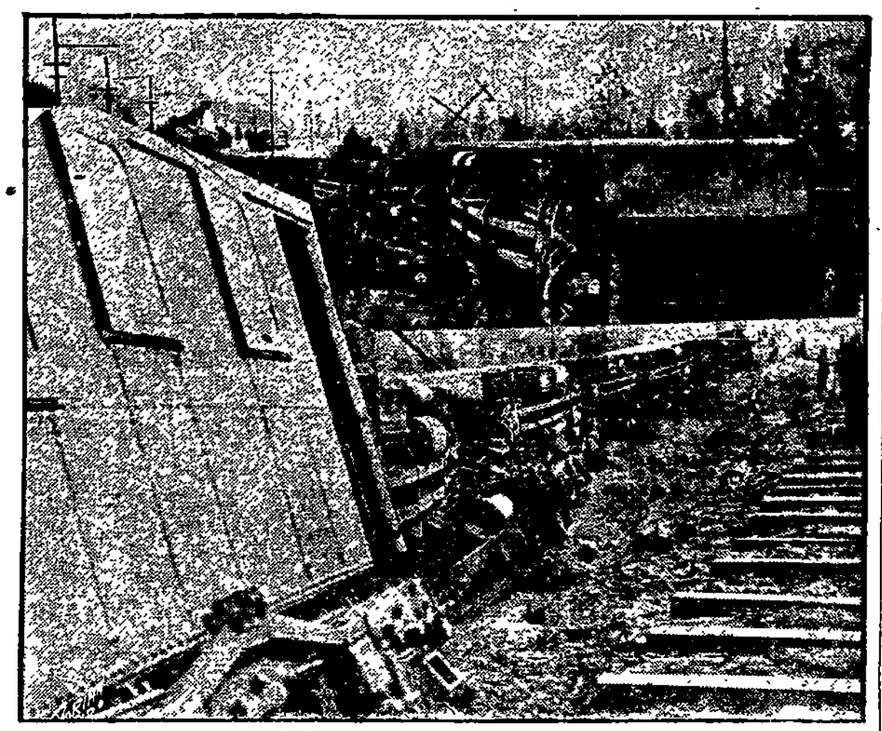

Many refugees in the three interior states have to journey hundreds of miles by the slowest forms of transportation in order to reach the river, where they are being put aboard ships.

In addition to the natural difficulties the British are hindered by obstructive tactics by some of the labor unions up the river. At Changsha yesterday a number of refugees who were put aboard small launches had to be transferred to the British gunboat Woodcock owing to the action of the seamen's union in organizing a boycott Later the military was endeavoring to prevent the Woodcock from departing

ASK BIG REBATE.

TRENTON, N. J. Jan. 14.—(AP)—Demanding a rebate of $2,681,702, with interest at 6 per cent for eight years, the American Can Co., sent an array of counsel before Judge Bodine in Federal district court here Thursday to press charges that the government illegally secured that sum through excessive income taxation in 1917.

Only One Killed When Long Train Is Ditched

Due in all probability to strongly built, steel equipment, only one person was killed and fourteen injured in the wreck of an entire train, pictured here The "Olympian," Seattle to Chicago on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, drawn by a powerful electric locomotive, jumped the track at 6 a. m., on the Rocky mountain division at Cyr, Mont., thirty-six miles west of Missoula. Only a baggage and an observation car remained upright. Passengers praised Conductor L A Eller of Alberton, Mont., for saving them from broken electric power wires which fell on the steel coaches and made vivid flashes.

Women Gaining On Men In Literature, Study Shows

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Men have almost twice as much chance of succeeding in a literary career as women, according to Glen B. Winship, novelist, in an address here before a convention of club women. The ratio, however, is rapidly changing.

"Study of 130 successful novelists," said Mr. Winship, "revealed that 114, or 64 per cent, were men, while 66 of the writers, or 36 per cent, were women These figures include both American and British authors.

"Greater success of men in literature is partly due to the fact that they have been at the task centuries longer than women. The first sucessful woman novelist did not appear until 1803. She was Jane Porter, who wrote 'Thaddeus of Warsaw,' a best seller of its day. The first American woman to gain international prominence as a novelist was Catherine Sedgewick, who began writing about 1825.

"Women have been too busy drudging in the kitchen, caring for children and looking after their homes to assert themselves seriously in literature up to the present time, but it is logical to assume that the percentage of successful women novelists will soon be as great as that of men"

Iowa Farmers Seek Traces of Whisky Ship Lost Years Ago

MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Jan. 14—(I N.S.)—Something of the interest and enthusiasm that must have embued adventuresome people along the Atlantic coast years ago when excursions were made for treasure believed to have been buried by pirates, has filed people of this community following reports that a river boat, laden with whiskey, sank near here years ago.

The bed of the Missouri river once was near this town, and the story goes that a steamboat, carrying a heavy cargo of choice whiskies, brandies and wines foundered and went down during a storm The river now flows ten miles west of here, and the old bed of the Big Muddy is now a cornfield.

But somewhere under the corn is said to be the hulk of this old boat with what would now be a cargo as precious as gold. The exact location of the boat is not known, but farmers are reported to be keeping a close eye on their property in the hope of someday upturning a part of it that would give a clew to its buried treasure.

Such stories, however, are not new along the river. Ever since prohibition became the law tales of buried river ships with their holds filled with the forbidden liquid have flourished, based for the most part on legends handed down by the old timers.

M'NARY-HAUGEN BILL APPROVED

House Committee Favors Equalization Fee Principle.

Haugen Will Call For Early House Vote On Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.— (By the Associated Press.)—Farm relief legislation has advanced to the semi-final stage in the house and it remains only for the rules committee to decide the time for a decision.

The winner of the long struggle in the committee elimination contest is the McNary-Haugen bill, carrying the controversial equalization fee and the manner in which it was voted upon yesterday by the house agricultural committee ,indicates a bitter fight when it reaches a vote in the house.

The committee voted 13 to 8 to report the measure, but party lines parted, with four republicans joining as many democrats in opposition, and eight republicans and five democrats supporting it. That members want a quick showdown, however, was seen in instructions given Chairman Haugen to ask the rules committee to set an early date for a house vote.

The fight is expected to center around the equalization fee, which would be levied on basic farm commodities to take care of surpluses. Among those in favor of the fee are southern democrats, but they do not want it imposed on cotton for two years, holding the industry could not stand such a levy until that time.

Aswell Complains.

One southern member, Representative Aswell of Louisiana, ranking democrat on the agriculture committee, who voted against reporting the McNary-Haugen bill, said such a fee would tax cotton from $10 to $10.50 a bale at the gin and that the board set up to levy the tax would have only three members from the cotton states

"The cotton growers can draw their own conclusion," he added

Representative Fulmer, democrat, South Carolina, voted to support the bill, but in so doing, he said he reserved the right to fight to postpone invoking the fee against cotton. If he failed in this direction, he added, he would vote against the bill on final passage.

Others, however, praised the basic principles of the measure as sound, Chairman Haugen, too, expressed confidence in the final outcome declaring nearly two dozen members who voted against an almost identical measure last year "will be with us this year."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, with its controversial equalization fee feature, was approved Thursday by the house agriculture committee, party lines breaking on the 13 to 8 vote to report the measure. Four republicans joined with that many democrats in opposition, while eight republicans and five democrats supported it.

Chairman Haugen was instructed to ask the rules committee to provide for an early house vote on the proposal, which is certain to face a bitter fight if it is called up before March 4 adjournment

Although the vote to report had been ordered as the first business of yesterday's meeting, the committee got into another controversy over the equalization fee, which would be levied on basic crops with a view to controlling surpluses. A new move was made to substitute the Curtis-Crisp bill, which would not provide an equalization fee, but it failed, 16 to 5.

Cotton Growers Object.

Throughout the long struggle over farm relief, the equalization fee has been the principal point of divergence. Among those who favor the fee are southern democrats who do not, however, want it imposed upon cotton immediately, because, they contend, the industry cannot stand it for two years.

"The fee," said Representative Aswell of Louisiana, ranking democrat on the committee, in announcing he voted against reporting the McNary-Haugen bill, "is actually a tax" and that tax upon cotton would amount to from $10 to $10.50 a bale at the gin. The board which controls levying of the tax would have only three members from the cotton states.

Representatives Adkins, republican, Illinois, held that the equalization fee was "body and soul" of the bill.

"It is the best bill we have ever had," he declared, "and we must get it through congress with the equalization fee in it. Today was a great victory for the farmers."

Haugen Is Confident.

Among the republicans who opposed the McNary-Haugen measure in the committee was Representative Fort, republican, New Jersey, who described it as "a piece of very unsound legislation." He said he was eager for some agricultural relief in this congress, but the McNary-Haugen bill would "not get to first base."

Chairman Haugen expressed confidence that the bill would make the barriers on the house floor.

"Nearly two dozen members who voted against the bill last year," he said, "will be with us this year."

Haugen said in a statement that the primary purposes of the bill were "to prevent surpluses from unduly depressing the prices" of basic commodities and to prevent undue fluctuations in prices.

"The $250,000,000 revolving fund contains no subsidy. It is advanced as working capital and is repayable to the treasury. In its loan provisions the measure offers assistance to producers of all commodities, but it provides for special operations with cotton, wheat, corn, swine and rice, which are defined as 'basic agricultural commodities'."

CHICAGO—(AP)—Many states are neglecting the proper maintenance of highways they have already built with consequent increase of hazard to travel, efficiency and loss of millions of dollars on roads investment. This was the statement made by William H. Connell, Thursday, engineer executive and acting highway secretary of the Pennsylvania state department of highways, Harrisburg, at the convention here of the American Road Builders' association, which after three days discussions of super-highways and the projected road extensions, took up the subject of properly caring for roads already in existence.

MOTHER'S DYING WISH FULFILLED; LOST SON FOUND

Howard Hendrick, as he appeared on western ranch.

MUSKEGON, Mich.—A mother's death at Anderson, Ind., is indirectly responsible for the penetration of a 16-year-old mystery regarding the whereabouts of her son, Howard Hendrick.

Informed by physicians that she had only a few days to live, Mrs. James Fricks asked her son, James, to redouble his efforts in trying to find another son, Howard. Sixteen years before when the parents separated, Howard had been placed in an orphans' home. James had shifted for himself.

Howard, grown up, likewise made his own way, at one time being on a western ranch.

With a mother's dying request ringing in his ears, James, a motorcycle officer at Muskegon, Mich., went to the orphans' home to ascertain who had adopted his brother, who had just become of age.

He was sent to Newberry, Ind. There he learned that Howard had married and was living under his own name at Goshen, Ind. At Goshen, he found his brother, who, too, had searched for years to learn whether members of his family were still living.

Together they hurried to the bedside of their mother, who died peacefully a few days later. The mother had married again, following estrangement from her husband, John Hendrick.

MEXICAN OFFICER DENIES CHARGE OF BOLSHEVISM

MEXICO, CITY, Jan 14.—(AP)—Aaron Saenz, the Mexican foreign minister, declares that Secretary Kellogg's statement before the foreign relations committee of the United States senate does not prove the charge that Mexico is attempting to establish a bolshevik hegemony in Latin-America.

"I do not allude to the decisions adopted by foreign organizations for which I am sure nobody can hold the Mexican government responsible," said the minister, "but it is necessary energetically to reject those charges against the Mexican government, especially regarding its relations with Russia."

LISBON, Portugal—(AP)—Officers and soldiers of the Portuguese army have volunteered to contribute monthly a sum from their pay to help wipe out the country's war debt to England.

HOLD SERVICES FOR SAUNDERS

Senate Pays Tribute To Former Solon Who Died Last Week.

Memorial services for C. L. Saunders of Omaha, veteran senate member who died last week, were held in the senate chamber Thursday afternoon.

Eulogies were spoken by Senators Reed, Banning, Miller, Scott, Chappell, Chambers, Smrha, Osterman, Reynolds, Robbins, Cooper, and Lieutenant Governor Williams. All of them were personal acquaintances of Saunders while he was a member of the legislature. The service was closed with a prayer by Senate Chaplain A A Cressman.

"Charles L. Saunders, to whose memory the senate and state of Nebraska pay this final tribute of respect ,was born at Mount Pleasant, Ia., December 22, 1867, came with his parents to Omaha, Neb., in 1561, and died there January 7, 1927. He was educated in the Omaha public schools, went to Cornell university where he graduated in the law school. He was the son of Alvin Saunders, the last territorial governor and one of the early United States senators of Nebraska. His chain of life formed strong links in the state's progress and finer activities for a period of more than fifty years

"Mr. Saunders held the record for the number of terms of service in the state senate. He served through eight regular sessions, in 1903, 1905, 1907, 1913, 1915, 1919, 1921 and 1923. During the 1907 session he was president pro tem of the senate and acting governor a part of the time and was again president pro tem in the 192 3session. Mr Saunders as a legislator was a constructionist. He was positive in his convictions, clear in judgment, dominant in influence but never intolerant or offensively aggressive. His advice and counsel were frequently sought by the inexperienced legislator and was generously given. In the present senate there are thirteen members who served in one or more sessions with Mr. Saunders and who know what a high type of man he was

"He was a member of the last Nebraska Constitutional convention, 1919-1920, supervisor of the federal census in 1910 for the second Nebraska district, a realtor for nearly forty years of active business in his home city and at the time of his death United States collector of customs and custodian of the Federal building in Omaha.

"He was a member of the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben since 1916, and was crowned the twenty-sixth king of 1920. He was a member of the leading clubs of Omaha and of many fraternal orders, including the Masons and Elks.

He deserves no less a tribute to his private life than to his public service. His home life was as clean as his political life

"Mr. Saunders never married. His home life for many years has been a life of devotion to his aged mother, who is still living at the advanced age of 92 years We like to think of him as a man who was devoted to filial duty, loyal to his friends and valuable to his city, state and nation His personality was pleasing and yet dominant and strong He was best loved by those who knew him best

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the senate of the state of Nebraska sincerely regrets the death of our friend and former senator, Charles L Saunders, and we hereby express our deep appreciation of the purity of his life and his great public service and lament his loss to the state and nation.

"Be it further resolved, that we pay this public and private tribute to his high character, his cheerful, lovable disposition, his filial devotion and his influence in securing the better things for this great commonwealth, the development of which has been contemporaneous with his own life, and we respectfully tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved mother and sister and other relatives, and that the secretary of the senate be directed to enter these resolutions on the record and transmit a copy to the mother. Mrs. Alvin Saunders."

SAY COMMUNISM RULES A UNION OF FUR WORKERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 14 —(AP)—Declaring itself convinced that a group of communists, closely allied with the Russian soviet government, virtually has obtained control of the International Fur Workers' union in New York City, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in session here took steps Thursday "to rid this organization of its communistic leadership and destructive influences."

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles To Minerva

Jealous of Children.

Does a husband become jealous of his children, or his first child rather, and turn cold and disagreeable to both wife and offspring? This woman thinks that must be the basic cause of her husband's turning away from her

It seems strange, at least to me, that a husband and father would not share the intense interest of the mother for their child It is his as much as hers and it doesn't take much understanding to realize that babies need concentrated care and that a mother, with no outside help, must devote hours a day to her duties. It is a poor husband who can't lend a hand generously.

That is why I think there must be something besides jealousy here

What is your opinion?

Dear Minerva. I am miserably unhappy, and telling you my troubles may help. My husband and I have been ideally happy for two years, until our baby was born three months ago. Since then he hase gradually turned cold toward me and he never pays the slightest attention to little Jeanne I ask him if he loves her and he says "Of course" but I can't get him to even hold her for a minute.

And he has taken to going out nights, a thing he never did before, and I am lonely and unhappy at a time when I expect so much. I have told only one person, a close friend, and she says my husband is jealous of the baby, that he is lost without my undivided attention and I have come to believe her There seems to be no other possible reason. But Minerva, we can't afford help, and my home duties and my baby seem to fill every waking moment. And I don't want to lose my husband's love Do you suppose any of the readers have gone through similar experiences and can tell me if it is jealousy that causes his coldness. M. M

A. Some women do concentrate a bit too thoroughly on their babies to the utter neglect of Hubby Have you done that? Still, you would think a normal, intelligent man would be big enough to understand your busy hours. And you would think too, that he would love his own

Can any of the readers help?

Quality of Love.

Dear Minerva. I have been wanting to write to you for a long time to see if you might have a solution for my problem but I never could get up quite enough courage.

I have been going with a young man for almost two years He has asked me to marry him and I have accepted. However, after reading and hearing so much of what love is like, I begin to get afraid that my love is not the kind upon which a home should be built. I can't feel thrilled when he touches me or when he kisses me. But sometimes I want his kisses desperately. I would do anything for him and I love to be with him. Most of his traits are to be admired. I don't care to go with other boys and haven't since I started going with him.

But, Minerva, I get so blue when I think that perhaps I am living a lie and may ruin all of his hopes and plans—and mine too My great desire is that I might realize that my love is strong and great like his.

I have prayed to God to tell me that my love is real and if it isn't to let me learn to love him. He argues that one cannot learn to love, that it is ordained by God But a woman wrote to your mail not long ago saying that she had learned to love her husband after they were married.

Minerva, I have not told him how I feel and he believes that I really love him. Shall I tell him how I feel or let things work themselves out? It would break his heart to know that I have been deceiving him.

We are not to married for several years yet. Don't you think time will tell?

Minerva, please help me as I cannot stand this state of mind much longer. Thank you, so much. GRACE

A. Time will tell.

There has been a discussion waging in The Mail concerning the comparative value of thrills and companionship as a basis of marriage. Of course, a happy medium is the desired element. Neither cold companionship nor a befuddling of reason by the senses are ideal.

I believe you love this man, but have been influenced into fear through the extremities of emotional love as displayed in many of our popular books and pictures.

Man of Her Dreams.

Dear Minerva: I just happened to pick up the paper last night and read what "Jack" and "N. Y." had written. Not that I don't usually read your column but I have been so busy that I haven't had time to even glance at a paper So I have at least one admirer, well now isn't that nice? I was quite interested in "Jack's" letter and also "N Y" But I wonder how many more there are like "Jack" Any way I appreciate what he wrote, and I'd sure hand him "two Bits" if I had it. I'm really surprised that there is such a thing as dating a "Wallflower" and really enjoying yourself But if "Jack" says so then it must be so But I'm here to tell you 'Jack" it would take more than a personal letter to renew my faith in these "so-called Men" He sure said it when he said that we were living a little too fast. I sure don't want to take one of these chances on marriage, because I don't believe in "Divorce" And of course, "if I wait long enough I'll meet the man of my dreams" All fairy tales go like that, but I'm not going to hold my breath waiting

And of course "Jack" ought to know what he's talking about, if he has been through the mill, as he said. He sounds like a sensible sort of man, and I surely thank him for his advice as it has cheered me a lot.

Minerva. I believe "N Y" and I must be twins, and I would like to know her too, so I am sending you my address also, and will be very grateful to you if you would exchange them. Thanking you kindly, "FANCHEON."

Questions In Brief.

Beth: You are about nine pounds too light for your age and height Your thigh, calves and bust are rather small for beauty. When you have gained your normal weight your figure will be much improved. Wearing high heels is and unhygienic custom which intelligent young people are tending more and more to discard. It thickens ankles and throws the weight of the whole body out of its natural alignment. If by "natural complexion" you mean a medium shade, the following colors should be becoming to you: bronze, medium tan, yellow, dark and medium blues, dark green, reseda, pink, gray, silver-gray, purple, dull brick, rust, flesh, peach.

Mildred: From both your questions I would judge that your general health is not so good as it was. Sallow, coarse skin and dry hair usually point to some internal cause which may be mental (as wory) or physical. I think, too, that you are not giving your skin the right care First, apply the cold cream, leave it on for twenty minutes, then wipe it off carefully with a pad of clean, absorbent cotton that has been squeezed out in an astringent lotion Do not leave the cream on over night. Next morning, wash your face with cold water, dry thoroughly, apply a powder base and face powder Liquid powder is more suitable for evening than day wear as it gives the skin an artificial look under natural light I think you will find you can use the dry powder after following the above treatment for a week or so.

Boy, 14, Says Mother Killed Self After Murdering Her Ward.

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Jan. 14—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Emma Werner, 48, who killed herself Thursday with a shotgun following the death Tuesday of Russell West, 20, her ward, caused the latter's death during an early morning struggle at their farm home near Culver, according to an alleged deposition by Elmer Werner, 14, the woman's son, to Coroner R. E. Johnson.

Young Werner, according to the deposition, said his mother told him she and Russell got into a fight following the early morning chores, during which she said Russell struck her with an axe. Werner said his mother told him she grabbed the axe and struck Russell, who fell downstairs Werner said he came and saw his mother place a belt around West's neck and draw it tight, dragging his body back under the stairway. She then called a doctor, Werner said, and went to bed.

The Best of 250 Shampoos

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Here is an example of how I get the best beauty aids created.

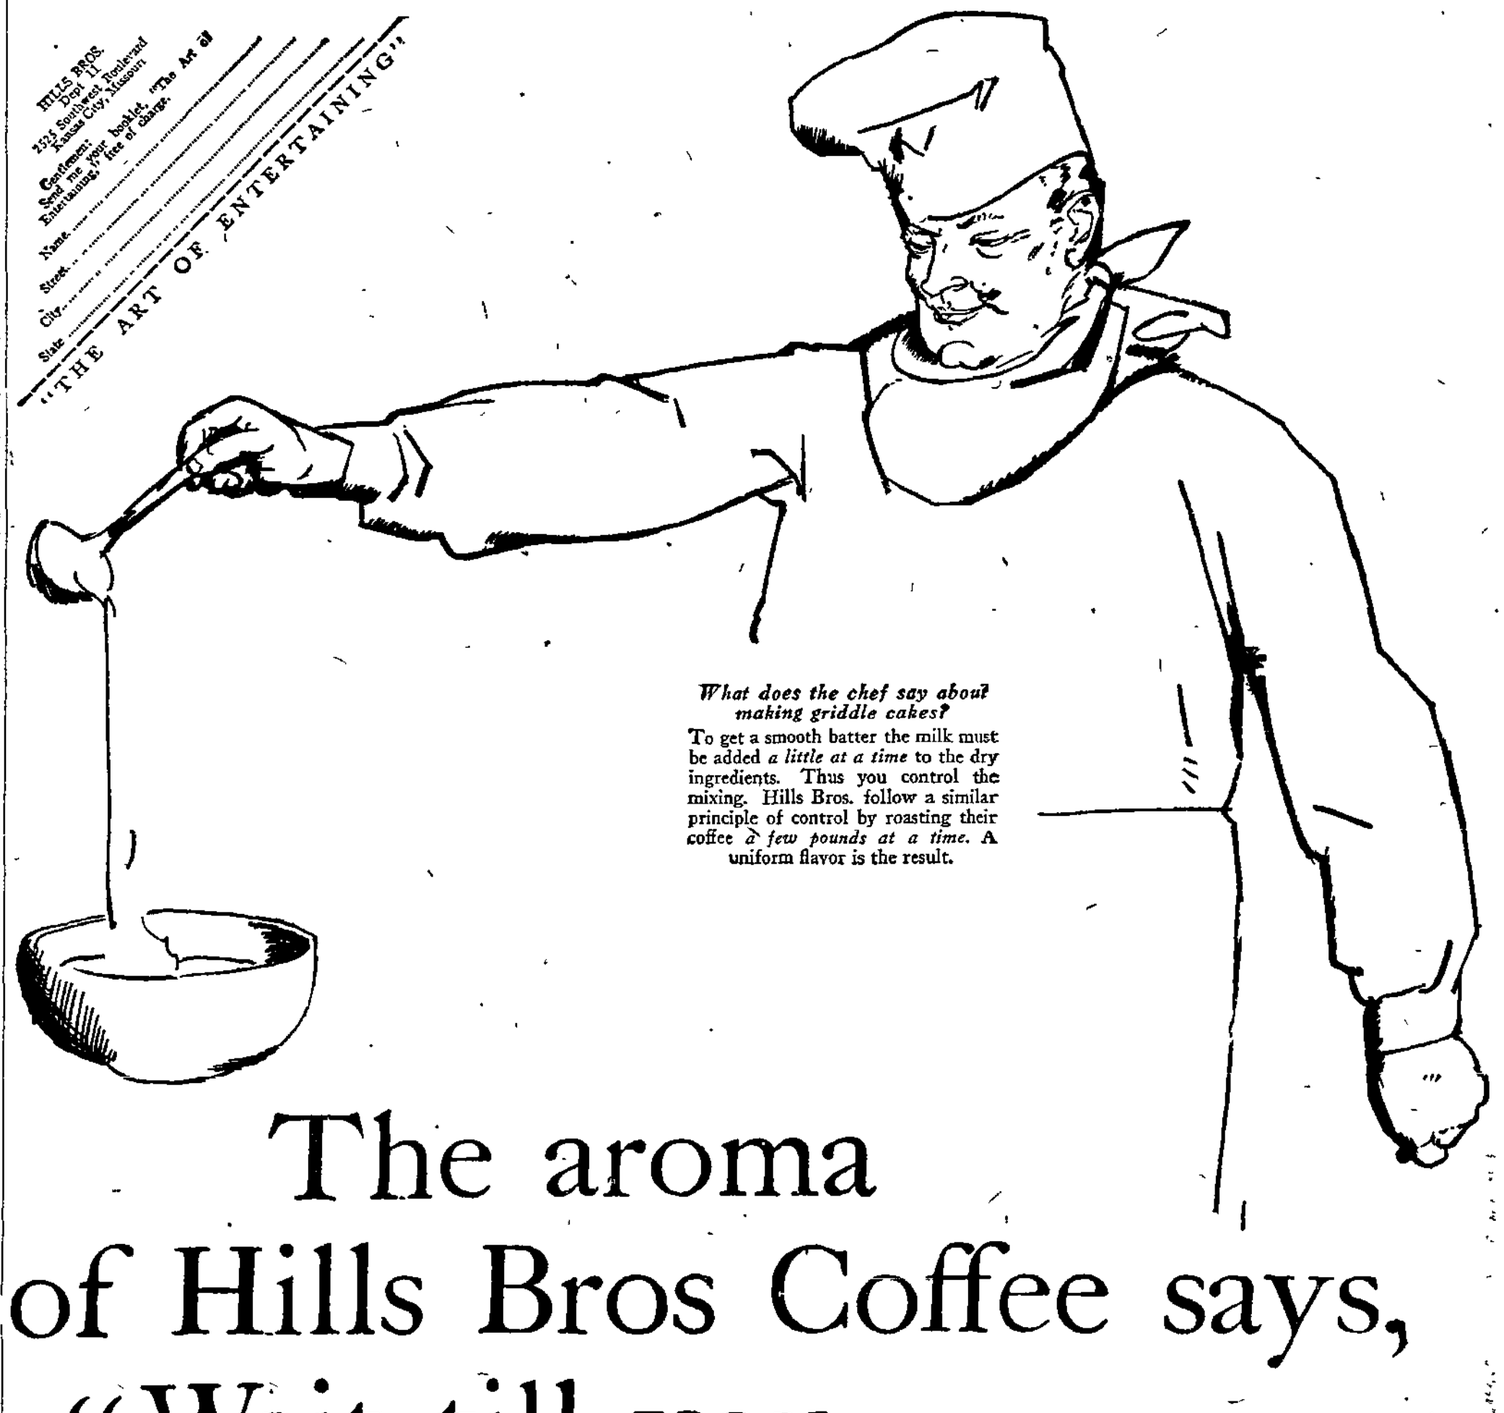

A famous laboratory sent me some shampoo. They said, "we have spent 60 years in the study of shampoos. We made up and tested over 250 formulas before we perfected this. Here is the final result. It not only leaves hair soft and clean, but it gives a sunny glint."

Well, I found they were right. My hair was like a halo after using that shampoo. I knew at once that millions of women would welcome a wash like that.

So I asked those famous chemists to make it for all of us. I called it Edna Wallace Hopper's Fruity Shampoo. All toilet counters now supply it at 60c per bottle under my guarantee. Or the coupon will bring you a trial bottle, also my Beauty Book. Try it for your own sake. You will be amazed and delighted.

What does the chef say about making griddle cakes?

To get a smooth batter the milk must be added a little at a time to the dry ingredients. Thus you control the mixing. Hills Bros. follow a similar principle of control by roasting their coffee a few pounds at a time. A uniform flavor is the result.

You won't be disappointed. Instead, that first sip is going to make you sit back and marvel. Never in your coffee-drinking life have you drunk such genuine coffee goodness. A perfect union of aroma, flavor and strength!

No ordinary methods of roasting could ever produce a coffee with such flavor as found in Hills Bros. Instead of roasting in bulk, only a few pounds at a time are roasted in an even temperature. That's Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' patented process.

Everywhere in the West—from the Pacific Coast to the Mississippi, you'll find Hills Bros. Coffee overwhelmingly preferred. Ask for it by name and take care to see that the Arab is on the vacuum tin. CHAPTER IX.

On the Journey Home.

Dinner was over on board the Cassilia, and Patricia was sitting alone in a quiet corner of the deck with only her thoughts for company. From a little distance away came the sound of voices, interspersed with an occasional gay burst of laughter, and now and again a stray bar of music or an arpeggio flicked lightly across the strings of a violin floated up the companion way. The final dance of the voyage home had been fixed for tonight, but somehow Patricia felt curiously indifferent as to whether she took any part in it or not. If people came along and insisted upon her joining in, she supposed she should yield to their importunities, but until they discovered her — and she thought that the spot she had selected was fairly secure from observation—she intended to remain where she was.

It was curious to think that in a very short space of time the friendly, jolly crowd of people on board—and there had been a particularly nice passenger list this voyage, she reflected—would have separated and gone their several ways, very probably, in the majority of cases, never to meet again. It is not often that the foundations it a lasting friendship are laid on board ship—although that most permanent institutions, matrimony, is quite frequently erected on the uncertain scaffolding offered by a shipboard acquaintance.

Patricia's thoughts traveled slowly over the weeks which had elapsed since she quitted Coomara. In retrospect the time appeared much longer than it had actually been if measured by the prosaic method of so many days and hours. The day on which she had boarded the train for Bombay seemed extraordinarily far distant. So much had happened between then and now—such an amazing adjustment taken place in her attitude toward Kerry Lorimer.

Looking back, she could hardly refrain from laughing at the remembrance of her prickly reception of him when he first entered the train and calmly announced his intention of traveling to Bombay—and ultimately to England—in her company! She could still recall her feeling of revolt—the reasonless fear which had obsessed her, like the terror of some wild creature which finds itself trapped suddenly.

And then had come his reassuring offer to act merely as a courier and his proposed burying of the hatchet. He had very literally fulfilled the obligations he had taken upon himself. Throughout the whole of the long, wearisome journey from Coomara to Bombay he had smoothed away every difficulty and added whatever little comfort it was possible to procure—appearing as though by magic, at the carriage door, armed with a cooling drink, just when her throat felt unendurably parched and dry with the heat and dust of travel, and, in partnership with the old butler—a former servant of her father's—who traveled with her as far as Bombay, seeing to it that the meals served to her were the best possible under the circumstances.

Since she had been on board the Cassilia it had been the same thing. Unobtrusively, Kerry had contrived to take the edge off all the sharp corners of the voyage for her, as only an experieced traveller knows how to do, and now that the long journey to England was approaching its end she was realizing how much of its effortless ease and smoothness she owed to his thoughtfulness.

She was also realizing something else as well—that she had come to count on his comradeship in a way which puzzled and almost frightened her. She was instinctively conscious that they each looked at life from fundamentally opposing angles, that his ways were not—could never be—hers. Yet, notwithstanding this clash of temperament and outlook, it was with an odd sinking of the heart that she recognized how short a time still remained of companionship together.

Always, it seemed to her, he himself had assumed the impermanence of their relation—had implied more than once that theirs was only the transient comradeship of fellow-travellers thrown together by the hap of fate. Never, on any occasion, had he spoken of the possibility of their meeting again after they had once reached England. It was as though, with the docking of the Cassilia at Liverpool, a shutter would descend between them, setting them apart for ever.

She had just arrived at this point in her reflection when she heard a familiar footstep and Lorimer himself came sauntering towards her. How he had discovered her retreat she did not know, but his sudden appearance, exactly at the moment she was thinking about him, sufficed to send the blood rushing up into her cheeks, and she turned her face quickly aside to hide that telltale banner of confusion. But he did not appear to have noticed it, for he addressed her in his usual imperturbable manner, apparently merely concerned for her material comfort.

"Are you quite warm enough, sitting there, Miss-sahib? Summer doesn't necessarily synchronize with the first of May on these latitudes, you know"

"Oh, I'm quite warm, thanks," she answered hurriedly.

"Let me tuck you up a bit better."

As he spoke, he stooped and with deft fingers rearranged the rug that lay across her knees Then he bent over her and drew the fur coat she was wearing a little closer about her shoulders. As he did so, his hand brushed the warm, bare whiteness of her throat and he drew it away hastily, as though he had been stung Patricia quivered. The touch of his hand against her skin sent a sudden little tremor, as of racing fire, through all her body.

He moved aside and, leaning against the deck rail, stood looking down at her contemplatively.

"Why are you not dancing tonight," he said at last

"I might ask you the same question," she retorted.

"No, you mightn't. I've never taken any part in these skittish performances since we came on board. But you have."

"Why don't you?" she asked The clear moonlight revealed the long, supple lines of his figure—lithe limbs which looked as though they combined the strength and phancy of tempered steel. If only he did dance, she commented inwardly, he would probably prove to be an extremely good dancer. It struck her suddenly how well a man's evening kit became him, and recollecting, with a funny little quiver of amusement, his appearance on that memorable occasion when she had seen him for the first time, clad in a battered old suit of weather-worn khaki, she wandered furtively whence he had contrived to evolve evening clothes of such impeccable cut.

"Why don't you dance?" she repeated.

"Why don't I?" He started down at her sombrely. Then, all at once, a curious glint came into his eyes. "Will you risk it?" he demanded suddenly

She caught her breath a little. Then, forcing herself to meet his glance.

"Yes, I'll risk it," she answered

"Good" He helped her out of the deck-chair in which she was sitting and together they made their way below to where the dancing was in full swing.

"I may dance like a jungle elephant," he warned her. "If so, remember it was you who proposed that we should gyrate together."

Patricia looked up at him with mirthful eyes. Somehow her spirits had risen unaccountably.

"On my own head be it," she said.

But she need have had no fears—afterwards she told herself that she had never really had any. Kerry danced equally well as he rode or shot, and she abandoned herself to the swaying rhythm of the music and to the firm, strong clasp of the arms that held her.

"I'm glad it happens to be a valse, not a fox-trot," observed Kerry. "The latter isn't dancing at all, in my humble opinion."

After that they spoke very little, but glided through the dance almost in silence, with a curious instinctive harmony of step and motion

It was over—and as they emerged on deck once again, Patricia was conscious that her heart was beating more rapidly than usual.

"That will be something to remember," said Kerry Adding in an odd tone: "When there's nothing else"

"We might conceivably dance together sometime or other in England," she submitted. "You never know."

"I do know. I shan't be in England, for one thing. And even if I were, I should never dance with you again"

"Why? Did I dance so badly?"—demurely.

"You know you did not."

"Then why won't you dance with me again—ever?"

"Because"—looking away from her across the wide expanse of sea—"there are some things a man may not do. And that's one of them."

She could not see his face very distinctly in the starlit dusk, but his voice held a curious note of sternness.

"Aren't we friends, then—after all?" she said. "I thought we'd agreed to bury the hatchet."

"Do you remember"—she could feel that he was looking down at her intently—"that I once told you I believed I could—make you care, if I tried? Well, I'm not going to try. That's all."

An utter silence followed. Patricia felt as though he had suddenly slammed a door in her face. A very strange tumult of emotion shook her—resentment at the sheer brutality of the harshly uttered speech, and, underlying that, a queer inexplicable pain.

Instantly, everything that was woman in her bade her hide her hurt. She contrived a laugh — a laugh which held quite a genuine-sounding ripple of mirth.

"And, anyway, you won't have the opportunity for trying such an experiment if you're not going to stay in England," she said.

He nodded.

"True. As soon as I've landed you safely on English shores my job's finished—at least, for the present."

"Your job's finished'?" she queried. "What do you mean? Do you mean—that you came to England on my account?"

"Entirely—to see you safely back"

"But—but why?" She stared at him in astonishment.

"Luttrell asked me to," he then answered simply:

"He asked you to?"

Kerry bent his head.

"Yes, that last day—when I came to see him."

She was silent, divided between a sudden rush of overwhelming tenderness for the man whose last thoughts on earth had been concerned only for her welfare and a disagreeable feeling of enforced indebtedness towards Lorimer. All that he had done for her, then, all the care and pleasant comradeship he had bestowed upon her had been given solely at the instance of her father — not spontaneously, but merely from a sense of duty! A slow flush dyed her face and neck scarlet at the very thought, and she felt profoundly thankful for the darkness w hich screened her from the piercing gaze of those keen grey eyes of his. When at last she spoke there was a quiver of hurt pride in her voice.

"I am very sorry my father had troubled you in the matter," she said. "He was so—so fond of me, you see"—she blinked away the tears that rose to her eyes at the remembrance of her beloved Sahib—"that he wouldn't think of the trouble it might be giving you. And there was no need for it. I'm perfectly capable of looking after myself."

"It was no trouble," returned Lorimer. He moved restlessly, as though he were under some strain that fretted him.

"I'm afraid it must have been, if you didn't want to come to England—if you wouldn't have been coming otherwise."

"What I may happen to want has very little to do with the matter. Ishmael wasn't asked what particular place of residence he favoured."

"Ishmael?" There was so much concentrated bitterness in his tones that her heart was touched. "But you are not Ishmael!"

"Am I not? Still, you needn't waste your sympathies on me. Even Ishmael got acclimatized to his desert in time, I expect. I'm so acclimatized to mine that I've no use for any other kind of life, now—as you know."

"I wish you wouldn't talk so hardly," she protested unhappily.

"Forgive me," he returned with sudden penitence "I'd no right to inflict my railings at fate on you."

"I've nothing to forgive," she answered gently. "I've only — to thank you for taking care of me. I wish I could tell Sahib—how good you've been. He would have thanked you better than I can"

Instinctively she stretched out her hand towards him. With a stifled exclamation he caught it in his and bent his head above it.

"Don't thank me," he said unsteadily. "The last few weeks have been the only ones worth living in a matter o ten years. It's I who should thank—you."

She felt his lips pressed suddenly, passionately, against her hand Then, with a strange, lingering gentleness, he released it and strode away, leaving her alone in the darkness, with only the ceaseless wash of the sea sounding in her ears like some farewell dirge.

Two egg yolks
One teaspoon vanilla
One and one-half squares chocolate, melted.

Mix the GREAT WESTERN BEET SUGAR with the flour and salt. Mix thoroughly and add the milk, egg yolks and chocolate. Cook in a double boiler until very thick and creamy. It will require about twenty minutes for this pudding to thicken. Add the vanilla and place portions in glass serving dishes. Chill and serve with plain or whipped cream.

Well Informed Authorities Commend Beet Sugar

"CHEMICALLY," says V.G.Heller, head of the Department of Agriculture chemistry research, Oklakoma Agricultural and Mechanical College at Stillwater, Okla., "there is no difference between pure beet sugar and cane sugar."

An Oklahoma Chemist Discusses the Subject

The school, under his supervision, has experimented with sugar. He says:

"Chemically, there is no difference between pure beet and cane sugar. There may be variations in the lots of either beet or cane sugar, depending upon the methods and care of precipitation and crystallization. The only difference between the two chemically might be the impurities absorbed by the crystals as they separate from the mother liquid.

"From my experience, many women believe that the fruit and jelly they spoil is made with beet sugar, and the fruit that keeps is made with cane. This, I am sure, is a matter of superstition. I have always been able to make the same fruit jell with either. Spoilage is due to a lack of sterilization of the fruit or the cans.

"Scientific investigations . . . . give comprehensive proof in regard to the use of beet sugar, and no well informed authority seems to have recorded any definite trouble with beet sugar."

AGRICULTURAL NEWS from NEBRASKA COUNTIES

(Associated Press.)

Enthusiastic comment on the organized agriculture meeting held here a week ago occupied most of the pages of county farm bureau agent's notes for the past week. From the expressions of the various agents, and from men and women in their sections, the meeting was considered the most successful ever held by the organization.

It is apparent from the comments that agricultural Nebraska considers these meetings as a necessity rather than an entertaining incident, and farmers throughout the state who attended the meeting have been loud in their praises of the manner in which the entire program was conducted.

County agents throughout this entire section of the state have reported a number of letters from farmers, telling of benefits derived from attendance at the meeting, and prophesying future benefits from advanced methods in the various phases of agriculture, learned by them at the meeting.

It seems apparent from this comment that farmers of Nebraska are "for" Organized agriculture, and its standards, almost to a man, it presages a banner year for the organization.

Plan Dairy Sessions.

Seward—Two dairy management meetings will be held in Seward County January 18; one at Milford and the other at Seward, M. L. Flack, of the extension service of the college of agriculture, will discuss feeding and management at the meetings, and H. J. Young, representative of a cement company, will instruct farmers in attendance on the use of cement in dairy construction.

Heads Saunders Board.

WAHOO—C. J. Ireland of Yutan, was re-elected president of the Saunders County Farm Bureau Board, at their regular meeting here. Bernar Eliason, Swedeburg, was elected vice president. Mrs. Amiel Hledik, Wahoo, secretary, and Herman Hanke, Ithaca, treasurer.

Saunders county farmers will have an opportunity to learn the various methods of repairs of common gas engine ailments, R. N. Houser, county agent, has announced.

Two gas engine schools will be held in the county, at which farmers can present their engine troubles and learn the methods of rectifying them. Balky gas engines will be brought in and repaired before the classes.

Hay Show Jan. 22.

Overton—Overton will have its second annual Hay Show, January 22. George R. Boomer, marketing specialist of the college of agriculture will tell of hay marketing problems, and several local men are scheduled to speak. A feature of the show will be a prize bale of hay contest. Farmers throughout the county are entering bales in this contest, one of which will be picked as the best bale in the county by hay experts.

War on Chicken Thieves.

Geneva—Agitation for the formation of an "Anti-Chicken Thief" association, or some similar organizaton to combat petty thievery, has been started in Fillmore county, Lee W. Thompson, county agent announced. The formation of such an organization, he said, would do away with much of the pilfering in the county.

Four Fillmore county girls, members of the Boys and Girls club, have received notification that their exhibits in the canning contest at the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, last November, won prizes in a special event. The girls, Erma Langhorst, Strang, Leona Dunker, Strang, Ruth Stickell, Ohiowa, and Helen Mason, Geneva, will receive prize money on their winning exhibits.

Study Cooperative Farming.

Lexington—Cooperative farming, according to Alvah R. Hecht, county extension agent is the keynote of Dawson county farmers meetings. They have found, he said, that practically all of their market troubles are eliminated by cooperative shipments. The county has five cooperative livestock shipping associations, which market more than half of all hogs raised in the county. There are two cooperative elevator companies, and four stock companies operating in the county. The newest cooperative movement in the county is a hay shipping association, organized primarily so that members can get the benefit of the Federal Grades.

Gives Account Books.

Syracuse—The Otoe county farm bureau has offered members account books, with which to keep yearly farm accounts and inventories. A. H. DeLong, county agent, department of the agricultural school has offered to assist farmers in keeping these accounts, and in taking inventory.

Leaders Specially Trained.

Walthill—Leaders of 4-H clubs in Thurston county will receive special training for their positions, by specialist of the grricultural school, Everett T. Winter, county extension agent, announced. Plans have been made for these leaders to assemble at certain times throughout the year, to receive instruction on various problems confronting them in their leadership of the clubs.

VOICE WINS

Rosalind Ruby, 15, formerly of Cleveland, O., sang at her work in a New York shop. Queen Mario, opera singer, heard her, and arranged for an audition that may lead to an opera career.

MANUFACTURING IS HOPE OF NEBRASKA

Beatrice Man Says Development Lies In Expansion Of Factories.

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 14.—(AP)—T. E. Adams, president of the Beatrice Steel Tank Manufacturing company and also president of the Nebraska Manufacturers' association, Thursday told the local Rotary club tht the stte's development in the future lies in manufacturing rather than agriculture.

Farming, he added, still offers great opportunities of development, but it is nearer its limit of productiveness than manufacturing. There are now 1,400 manufacturing institutions in Nebraska, he continued, with an annual turnover of $450,000,000 and a capital investment of $245,000,000.

With 84,000 employes on their payrolls, Nebraska's factories have an annual wage bill of more than $100,000,000, said Mr. Adams.

City Briefs

Sold Booze—Ann Johnson, colored, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal sale of liquor when she was arraigned in municipal court Thursday afternoon. She was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail.

Parked Truck Struck—A truck owned by L. P. Trumbley, 1005 North Thirtieth, which was parked at Eleventh and P streets Thursday afternoon, was struck by a car driven by H. C. Harweger, 1202 P street, according to police.

Clothing Missing—Ray Richards, 102 South Twenty-fifth reported to police Thursday afternoon the theft of an overcoat and a suit from a locker at the university coliseum. The clothing was valued at $35.

KEARNEY TO BE KIWANIAN HOST

District Convention In Midway City Probably In October.

Trustees and Other Officials In Session In Lincoln Friday.

Kearney was chosen Friday as the convention city for the 1927 meeting of the Kiwanis clubs of the Iowa-Nebraska district at a meeting of the trustees at the Lincoln hotel. District Governor C. W. Watson presided. The convention probaly will be held early in October.

Delegates to the conference were here from all sections of the two states, nearly a hundred attending, including many of the club presidents and secretaries who also were in conferences. The trustees met in the Garden room, the presidents in the Chinese room and the secretaries in the English room. The visitors were guests of the Lincoln club for luncheon at the chamber of commerce.

Governor's Address.

The objective of the district this year should be active support of the international program, Governor Watson declared in his address, enumerating among other things extending of the scope of Kiwanis, "and the development of a more evident Kiwanis consciousness."

Governor Watson also stressed that Kiwanis should be alive to the agricultural interests of the states in the district. Iowa and Nebraska are primarily agricultural states, he said, and the prosperity of each is dependant upon the prosperity of its farmers. Kiwanis should give itself to an earnest consideration, through its district and club committees on agriculture, of the development and encouragement of mutuality and co-operation between farmers and the men of the towns and cities. This can be done by the encouragement of boys' and girls clubs, special meetings in the country entertaining farmers at regular meetings and at picnics and other events."

The trustees voted the executive committee power at the morning session to act on matters of importance that ordinarily would be within the jurisdiction of the trustees. Action taken by the committee, however, would be subject to the approval of the trustees. The action was taken to expedite business between sessions of the trustees.

A greater part of the meeting was given over to a discussion of financial affairs and an explanation of the duties of district officials. Sidney L. Taylor of Sioux City, district secretary, explained the distribution of the fees and assessments and Treasurer Rion Dow of Fort Dodge, Ia., read his report. R. V. Kearns of Fremont, past district lieutenant governor, talked on the duties of a district trustee, and "Duties and Responsibilities of a Lieutenant Governor" was the subject of an address by Past Governor Sterling Alexander of Webster City, Ia.

Routine affairs in connection with local clubs were discussed at the meetings of the presidents and secretaries. Murray Thoms of Omaha, presided at the presidents' meeting and Harry W. Gleim of Fort Dodge, Ia., for the secretaries.

Delegates began arriving Thursday night and informal meetings of some of the committees were held at the Lincoln.

General Conference.

The program at the general conference Friday afternoon:

Remarks by the district governor.

ORDER MAYOR TO WASHINGTON

Philadelphia Executive Subpoenaed By Reed Committee.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the United States Senate, today subpoenaed Mayor Kendrick and members of the registration committee to appear tomorrow at Washington before the Reed committee which will investigate the last senatorial election in Pennsylvania.

Whether the mayor and the commissioners will go to Washington was said to be doubtful, as a telephone message to Senator Reed's office brought information that the committee did not want the Philadelphia officials, but did want the ballot boxes.

SWANSON REPLIES TO ATTEMPT TO ABOLISH OFFICE

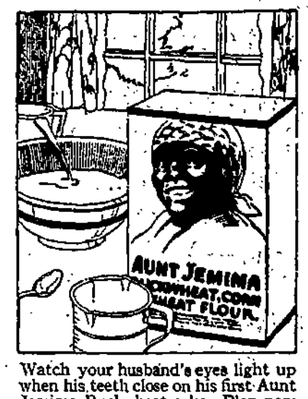

Aroused by the bill introduced Thursday by Senator W. B. Banning proposing that the office of land commissioner be abolished and the duties of that office be turned over to the state auditor, Land Commissioner Dan Swanson today gave out a statement showing that the expenses of conducting the office for one year amount to $16,159 rather than $28,000.

The statement also shows that the rentals collected during the last year amounted to $376,384 compared with $171,686, the amount of rentals collected ten years ago.

"Mr. Banning stated that we have less land, which is true, but if that land is not taken care of properly, why should the collections show such a large increase with approximately 76,000 acres less land. At this time the state has under lease 1,590,271 acres of land," Swanson said.

37 LOSE LIVES IN AN EXPLOSION

Mexican Longshoremen Believed Claimed By Ship Blast.

TAMPICO, Mexico, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Thirty-seven Mexican longshoremen are believed to have been killed by an explosion of gasoline on the British steamer Essex Isles Thursday The longshoremen were loading the steamer.

A spark from the crashing together of two steel beams which were being removed from the Mexican Eagle Oil Co.'s pier ignited gasoline as it was being transferred to the steamer. A terrific explosion followed and set fire to the ship

The Mexican longshoremen on the pier or in the ship received the full force of the blast Some of them were blown in the air, others were burned to death, while some of the injured died on the way to the hospital.

As there was already much gasoline aboard the Essex Isles the steamer burned fiercely.

"The Music Master" Given By Players At Temple Theater

The University Players do a remarkably fine piece of work in their presentation of "The Music Master," this week at the Temple theater Practically every seat in the house was sold for the Thursday evening performance for perhaps, two reasons. The Players are enjoying an increasing popularity with the town people as well as students, and then, there may have been some curiosity concerning the impersonation of the beloved character, made so famous by David Warfield, by a university student

If there were any doubts as to Harold Suption's ability to handle the role they were banished before the first act had well begun David Warfield is David Warfield, there is no denying, but the fact that Harold Sumption was not a David Warfield, only made his work the more wonderful. His voice, deep and resonant, was particularly fitted for the character he portrayed His acting was not exaggerated, there being nothing but simple pathos or a clever bit of humor throughout his scenes

Paul, Miller, Jack Rank and Werner Mall gave very fine characterizations of Bohemian life, and Thad Cone as Henry Stanton, did some very effective work Joyce Adair made an appealing Helen, daughter of the old music master Eloise McAhan and Louise Jenkins as two silly little girls added a bit of humor.

The play will be repeated this evening, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening.

The cast is as follows

Anton Von Barwig	Harold Sumption
Signor Tagliafico	Paul Miller
M Louis Pinac	Jack Rank
August Poone	Werner Mall
Henry A Stanton	Thad Cone
Andrew Cruger	Ernie Lundgren
Beverly Cruger	Hubert Fenne
Mr Schwarz	Robert Reade
Mr Ryan	Don Helmadorfer
Al Costello	Harold Felton
Joles	Cecil Schmitt
Collector	Elwood Ramaj
Mrs Andrew Cruger	Ardath Srb
Helen Stanton	Joyce Adair
Miss Houston	Lucille Harris
Jenny	Elizabeth Woodbury
Charlotte	Louise Jenkins
Octavie	Eloise McAhan
Danny	Paul Boagen
Ditson	Ray E Ramsay

Mae Murray, possessor of the screen's most famous pair of "beestung" lips, is worried—really quite seriously. Having severed her connections with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, she can't decide for whom she wants to work Three companies are said to be bidding for her services and one producer hopes to get her signature to a contract calling for three pictures annually, at a salary of $700,000 and 25 per cent of the profits

R. W. JOHNSON NOW MANAGING HOLLYWOOD INN

R W. Johnson, for five years prior to 1917 owner and manager of the Lindell hotel, has located at Hollywood, Fla, where he is manager of the Hollywood Hills Inn. He went to Hollywood about a year ago.

While living in Nebraska, Mr. Johnson was prominently identified with the business life of the state. After disposing of his interests in the Lindell, he became, in 1917, managing director for the Nebraska Hotel company's chain and was president of th state hotelmen's association in 1920. In 1910-11 he was president of the Northwestern Hotelmen's association

During the World war Mr Johnson was chairman of the food commission for the first congressional district and later was state fuel director for hotels and apartment houses

Reconditioning of the hotels was one of the greatest problems of rehabilitation after the hurricane of September 18 Mr. Johnston points out Damages to the smaller houses amounted to hundreds of thousand of dollars. But, regardless of cost, all have been re-outfitted and offer the same comfort, beauty and entertainment for their guests that they had before the storm.

FAVOR SLASH IN POSTAL CHARGES ON NEWSPAPERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—Drafting of postal rate legislation which would materially reduce the postoffice department's revenue and effect a substantial saving in newspaper publishers' circulation costs was ordered Thursday by the senate postoffice committee

Restoration of the 1920 second class mail rates, which it is estimated would save newspapers magazines, periodicals and all paying users of second class mails approximately $7,000 000 a year, and a repeal of the 2 cents service charge on parcel post matter levied in 1925, were adopted The elimination of the service charge, unofficial estimates indicated, would cause a loss in revenue as high as $18 000,000.

The new rates will be those of 1920 before a general increase in postal charges was effected.

Ford Will Re-open School House Made Famous By Poems

SUDBURY, Mass, Jan 14—(AP)—The school house here where Mary and her little lamb "made the children laugh and play" is to be re-opened by Henry Ford as a school for Sudbury children Sixteen pupils, ranging from the first to the sixth grades will attend the sessions, which will start on January 17

Last May Mr Ford bought the little school house in Sterling, where the pet lamb followed Mary Sawyer to school many years ago and inspired the poem Since 1855, the building had been used as a barn in connection with the parsonage of the First Baptist church, but the original frame was intact and was moved to the vicinity of the Wayside Inn in Sudbury, now owned by Mr Ford

In addition to the school house itself Mr Ford bought from Frances Sawyer of Sterling, last May an extensive collection of books manuscripts newspaper clippings and autographed letters relative to the famous poem and to the ancestry and life of Mary Sawyer

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Mental "loafers" and "mediocre personalities" should be discouraged from continuing their college education, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan; believes.

Dr. Little, on today's program of the Association of American Colleges, suggested that if a student at the end of his sophomore year failed to show signs of interest in an education, he should be given a certificate for his first two years' work "and discouraged from spending more of his own or the faculty's time on further efforts toward a college education."

Certain faculty members, Dr. [illegible] held, are fitted better than others to come in contact with and arouse interest in the minds of immature students These, he believed, should devote their attention to the first and second year men Other faculty members "qualified by the profundity of their own scholarship to increase an already present appreciation of scholarship in the minds of others," should have the opportunity to come in contact with juniors and seniors, "in whom is being developed what really amounts to an intensely professional attitude toward some well defined fields of concentration."

MANAGUA, Nicaragua—(AP)—An unconfirmed report was circulated here Thursday that Juan B. Sacasa, head of the liberal government of Nicaragua, was leaving Puerto Cabezas, realizing it was hopeless to continue his opposition to the regime of the conservative president, Diaz, in view of the attitude of the United States It was reported also that President Sacasa was preparing to broadcast to the entire world a protest against the United States landing forces in Nicaragua.

FOREIGN POLICY ASSAILED ANEW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) — Congressional discussion of the Mexican-Nicaraguantangle swung back today to the concern of the American goverenment over communist aims in Latin-America and to tse possibility of a break with Mexico over her land and oil policy.

The protest voiced yesterday by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, against the course followed by President Coolidge in Nicaragua was seconded by several others from the senate floor, with Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, leading the attack on the administration policy

In the house, Representative Eaton republican, New Jersey, delivered a general defense of th Coolidg policy in Latin-Amrica and asked his colleagues directly whethere they proposedto stand "for the president of the United States or the president of Mexico."

The great danger in the present situation, said Eaon, was that the wesern continent would permit itself to be overrun by bolshevistic unrest ,hate and strife engendered in Russia." In reply, Representative Huddleston, democrat, Alabama read an editorial describing Secretary Kellogg's bolshevik statement as "an indecent intellectual exposure."

No Reason For rBeak.

A resolution which would declare it the opinion of the house that no reason exists to break relations with Mexico was inttroduced by Representative Moore of Virginia, a democratic member of the foreign affairs committee.

Senator Dill charged that the United States was seeking to "bully" Nicaragua. His attack was supported by Senator Heflinfi democrat Alabama, and others, while Senators LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, and Wheeler, democrat Montana, were pre[illegible]ng to speak within the next [illegible] days in protest against the administration policies aand Senator Edge, republican, indicated he would address the senate in defense of the president.

Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, in his first speech of the session, said he regarded "the action of our government in Nicaragua as unjustified and unconscionable."

scale of one inch to the foot as an exact replica of Rev. Norris' church—the First Baptist church in Fort Worth

Judge Hamilton seemed keenly interested in the exhibit and left the bench and stood by Langston while he detailed the measurements and designated teh offices

O. W. Phillips, Fort Worth embalmer, testified he had found four wounds in Chipps' body. The defense did not question Phillips

On cross examination, Simpson attempted to have Spreen designate the police officers he saw in the preacher's study. The ambulance driver was not sure but said he thought there were two

C. D. Rush, Fort Worth plain clothes officer, testified he and other officers went to the pastor's study shortly after the killing. No weapons were found other than the gun used by the minister, Bush testified Rev. Mr. Norris has maintained that he killed Chipps believing the lumberman sought to do him harm.

Stains in Ante Room.

Bush testified he had found blood stains on the carpet of an anteroom but when defense counsel attacked the officer's testimony, the plain clothes man said "it might have been sputum blood." Further interrogation refreshed the officer's mind to the extent that he said he "probably did tell" the grand jury that it was sputum and blood.

H. H. Raines, foreman of a tire repair shop located on the first floor of the church office building, testified he heard the shooting and upon entering the pastor's study saw the body on the floor and heard Dr. Norris say, "I killed him there."

BILL PROPOSES STATE CONTROL OF BUS TRAFFIC

Regulation of motor transportation by the state railway commission and new provision as to taxation of busses is provided in a bill proposed in the house this morning. The measure is designated as house roll No. 93 and was introduced by Representatives Staats, Morledge, Essam and McLellan.

The bill provides that companies be subject to the state registration fee or ocupation tax which shall be $25 for every person above this number which the car is equipped to carry. The proceeds of this tax are to be distributed to the various counties in which motor transportation companies operate upon the basis of the number of miles of highway in such county over which the company regularly operates busses. Under the present provision the tax paid by the companies goes to the county in which the license is issued.

The railway commission would be given power to regulate rates and otherwise supervise and regulate companies in all matters affecting the relationship with the public. The bill carries an emergency provision which calls for it to take effect immediately after it is passed and approved.

secretary. These boxes will be searched for possible additional securities. Receivership notices already have been served on the banks preventing the withdrawal of any of the actor's funds pending a settlement of the divorce suit.

Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Charlie Chaplin, the king of film comedy, arrived in New York on the Twentieth Century Limited today and told reporters that he would fight his wife's suit for a divorce "to the bitter end." He said the action brought by Lita Grey Chaplin in Los Angeles was instigated by his wife's family.

"I'm going to fight this thing out," he asserted. "I'm going to fight for the custody of my two children."

"Certainly, she's on my payroll," Chaplin said. "She's on the payroll for $250 a week, but that was the stipulation in her original contract.

Chaplin did not seem as depressed as reports from the west indicated he was in Chicago yesterday. He smiled as he dropped off the train to face a horde of reports and a battery of cameras. He posed amiably for pictures.

Big Crowd on Hand.

A large crowd gathered near the train, having learned of Chaplin's arrival. Chaplin tried to make his way to a waiting automobile, but he was blocked by the reporters, who shot questions at him.

In reply to one question Charlie denied he is worth $16,000,000 or anything like that amount.

He declared he intended to file a cross bill just as soon as he got back to California.

Charlie is not going to allow his marital troubles to interfere with his art, he said. He is going to resume work upon his newest picture, "The Circus," and complete it.

The famous comedian was as dapper as ever as he stepped from the train. He wore a cream-colored fedora hat and a broadcloth overcoat with an astrakhan collar. His necktie was dark and he carried a cane.

A Wan Smile.

A wan smile, as pathetic as that used in some of his pictures, hovered over Chaplin's face as the photographers rushed forward and began to request different positions for pictures But he was amiable enough in posing for the photographers

Charlie talked to the reporters as he posed. He was asked first about his domestic troubles

"I have seen my wife only once since she left my home with the children five weeks ago," said the comedian. "I visited her family to see my babies, but I did not say anything to my wife while I was there nor did she say anything to me. I talked to the babies, but left shortly afterward because I could not stand the environment I want the children for myself. They are not now with proper, responsible people"

Charlie's worried smile broadened a little when asked about press reports that his fortune was grown to $16,000,000, all made through smiles and laughs.

"Well, I hope it is that much," said the comedian. "But $6,000,000 would be very high; yes, even half that amount. Why, $16,000,000 is impossible. My income tax return will show what I am worth. This divorce action is only a money plot, pure and simple."

Will Finish New Picture.

In response to a question about his future plans Chaplin answered: "This divorce action is not going to interfere with my art I am certainly going to finish my new picture. When I get back to California I intend to file a cross bill in this divorce trouble.

"I did not run away from California I was not frightened. I came to New York for business reasons and as soon as I get through here I am going to return. I came here to consult my lawyer about the suit against The Pictorial Review and to close negotiations with the United Artists Co., my producers. I shall call upon Nathan Burkan, my lawyer, some time during the day.

The legal action mentioned by Chaplin is a suit for $500,000 damages, based upon a biography of the screen star written by Jim Tully. Chaplin admitted that he had been more or less closely associated with Tully for a year and a half, but had never authorized him to write a biography.

Chaplin was accompanied by Arthur W. Kelly, vice president and treasurer of the United Artists

BY SARAH BROWN.

ABROAD TWENTIETH CENTURY LIMITED, Enroute To New York, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—"She has been very cruel to me." The man whom Lita Grey Chaplin is accusing of infidelity, cruelty and dozens of other startling abuses, sat in his drawing room on this train early today, and, as he idly flipped a deck of cards in a game of solitaire, talked to me alone for over two hours

"Cruel is the only word that expresses it," said Charlie Chaplin, as the cards slipped through his slender, delicate fingers and the landscape outside hurried by while he discussed philosophy, life, religion, fate—and love

"I hate combat—I hate bickering and fussing. But now—now that such utterly vicious, viperous lies have been told about me—it's a case of standing with one's back to the wall and fighting it to a finish.

"Lita's action was so sudden and so unprovoked. The statements in her bill were terrible—terrible lies. When the time comes I can prove it—a man can't work night and day, writing, acting and directing, as I have done, and have time for all or even any of the things she says I have done.

"That's why I say she's cruel to me. I have been patient with her, and have done my best to make her happy. Why she should turn, and do all the spiteful, vengeful things she has done I don't know.

Says Can't Be Hurt.

"All I can say about it is that she can't really hurt me. No one, as long as he knows he has done right, and has nothing to shrink from in guilt, can be hurt by such a situation."

He pushed the cards away from him suddenly, and the face which has made countless thousands laugh seemed suddenly very old, very tired and unspeakably sad. It was after circus hours, and the clown had dropped his mask.

"I can't tell you what a home—a real home and a family mean to me," he said. "A house filled with beautiful things is worse than nothing when you have to live in it by yourself. But to have a wife—a sympathetic comiadely person, and children—to have that would be all I'd ask of life.

"Now—well, I've tried to make that dream come true. Perhaps that's the trouble with your most perfect dreams. They never come true.

"Do you know, I never had any real unhappiness until I became rich and successful—cold, disappointment, despair — those things are nothing compared to the staggering blows that hit you in the heart — hypocrisy, treachery and slander. Before I knew my friends took me for what I was. Now I can sometimes feel greedy fingers reaching for the gold they think I possess—which, by the way, is far from being sixteen millions of dollars. That's ridiculous.

Coast on Watch.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Interest in the Chaplin divorce suit today was centering around the steps the famous comedian had taken, if any, to checkmate the plans of his wife's attorneys to tie up his fortune.

Following the filing of divorce action against Chaplin, his wife, the former Lita Grey, immediately started the legal machinery which may seriously hamper her husband's financial activities

Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin were completing the tying up of Chaplin's California funds and property today. In the presence of Mrs. Chaplin and attorneys representing her and her husband, the vault in the comedian's Hollywood studio was to be opened today by Herman Spitzell, one of the receivers appointed by the court to take over Chaplin's business affairs.

From the studio the search will be pursued in Los Angeles and Hollywood banks, which have been served with notices restraining them from allowing any safety deposit boxes belonging to Chaplin Al Reeves, his general manager, or T Kono, his Japanese secretary, to be tampered with. The boxes will be opened at the orders of the court receivers, if any are found.

Will Report to Court.

"We intend to possess ourselves of as much property as possible and then make a report to the court," W. I. Gilbert, co-receiver with Spitzell, declared today.

Gilbert announced that no request had been made by Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys for the salaries of actors under contract with the Chaplin studio to be stopped

Plans for service on the comedian will be held in abeyance until Monday when Chaplin has an opportunity to appear and show cause why he should not make various provisions for his wife's support, for attorney's fees and other expenses, according to Lyndol Young, attorney representing Mrs Chaplin.

Chaplin will probably be represented at this hearing by his attorney, Loyd Wright, it was indicated today.

May Call First Wife.

Mrs Mildred Harris Chaplin McGovern, first wife of Chaplin, may be called to testify in behalf of Lita Grey, according to present plans of the present Mrs Chaplin's attorneys.

From her Santa Monica home the former Mildred Harris announced that although she will gladly help Mrs. Chaplin II, she would rather not be "dragged into court to rake up that past which I am trying so hard to forget."

Mildred Harris was married to Chaplin when she was but 16. She became the mother of a baby which died in childbirth. After this she and Chaplin came to the parting of the ways and were divorced.

The divorce action was started by Mildred Harris Chaplin and was based on grounds similar to those mentioned in the second Mrs. Chaplin's complaint

"I am sorry for them both," Mrs. McGovern declared when informed of Attorney Young's plans. "But I am happy now and would rather stay out of it I have a splendid husband and my own baby now, and I'm through with the past."

Mrs. Chaplin and her mother were in conference with their attorneys today, but would not disclose the nature of their business

Not To Be Deported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Charles Chaplin, film comedian, will not be deported if his wife, Lita Grey, wins her divorce against him, department of labor officials said today. They denied reports from Los Angeles that immigration officials were watching the Chaplin case with a view to deporting him to England.

It was pointed out that in order to deport Chaplin, who is a British subject, it would be necessary for him to be convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude. The divorce case, being a civil action, would not afford grounds for deportation, despite the serious charges it contains, officials said.

TWO CONVICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Arrested with John Shea, who waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to district court, Herman and Balderson on the stand denied all knowledge of fifteen gallons of liquor which state officers allege was found in the car in which they were riding from Omaha to Lincoln.

The state officers testified that the car carrying the three men were traveling towards Lincoln near Waverly when it turned into a farm yard as soon as it came within sight of the officers' car parked by the road. After a while the car came out again and started off in the direction from which it had come. Herman and Balderson declared that they turned in at the farmyard to see a friend of Shea's

Judge Chappell, after finding the pair guilty, fined Herman $100 for possession of liquor, $100 for transportation, and ordered the car confiscated. The transportation penalty also carries a 60-day jail sentence. Balderson's sentence was deferred until Friday morning, when Judge Chappell announced the penalty as 30 days in the county jail for possession of liquor, and for transportation, 60 days and a $100 fine. Notice of appeal was served in both cases

Hill's Dream Nearer Realization.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—A dream of railroad consolidation envisioned by James J. Hill, "the empire builder," twenty-five years ago was a step nearer realization today.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, announced here yesterday that plans are "progressing" for the merger of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. Such a consolidation, if effected, would embrace in all a system of 28,000 miles.

Details of the plan are being worked out in conference of the rail officials and their legal advisers and may be ready for presentation to the interstate commerce commission within ninety days.

The various states through which the roads operate will be advised of the plans before they are turned over to the commission.

According to Mr. Budd, only "unforseen" problems, in his opinion, could prevent completion of the plans within three months.

Howard Elliott, chairman of the Northern Pacific, in a statement issued in New York, said that a joint consolidation committee of the three roads had been working on the subject for six years

Within the past six months, Mr Elliott's statement added, counsel for the roads have prepared some plans "which may permit a greater unification of the three properties than exists today."

The plans already drawn will be considered at conferences "during the coming week" and arrangements made to "complete the papers for submission at the proper time" to the commission and the share holders of the companies

Both Mr. Budd and Mr. Elliott emphasized that the merger is not complete any anything to the contrary is "premature and inaccurate"

ST. PAUL, Minn. Jan 14.—(By the Associated Press.) — Definite plans for the merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railways may be ready for presentation to the interstate commerce commission within ninety days. This information was given to the Associated Press Thursday by Ralph Budd president of the Great Northern, who said details of the plan are being worked out now in conferences of the rail officials

Through ownership of 97 per cent of the stock of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, these roads also would control operation of that line, affecting a system totalling 28 000 miles

If the merger is approved by the interstate commerce commission, the consolidated system will have a capitalization of more than $850,000,000 and a combined valuation of around $1,500,000,000.

Mr. Budd explained what the roads had done toward consolidation

"As soon as such a plan is made, if such a plan is found practical at all, it is the purpose of the railroad officials before presenting it to the interstate commerce commission to explain it to the state authorities governors and railroad and warehouse commissions of the various states of the northwest through which they operate, following which details of the plan will be made public. It is impossible to say how soon such presentation can be made"

Mr Budd supplemented his statement with the information that only "unforseen problems" in his opinion, could prevent completion of the plan within ninety days.

Mr. Budd refused to discuss any probable plans that would result from the merger, but the expectation is that general operating headquarters for the consolidated system would be in St Paul, present headquarters of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

The principal roads that probably would figure in the consolidation in addition to the three large systems are the Seattle, Portland & Spokane; the Colorado Southern; the Inland Empire and the Minnesota & International railroad.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific operate westward from St. Paul to the Pacific coast, while the Burlington has its eastern terminus in Chicago and operates west and somewhat south of that city.

The Burlington is the oldest of the three roads, dating back to 1849, when the Aurora branch railroad was formed.

States in which the three roads operate include:

abroad. It is reported that several priests, captured in the states of Jalisco and Coahuila, are enroute to Mexico City.

Charges of anti-Catholic persecutions are made by the newspaper Excelsior, which says it has reliable authority for the statement that five youths, none more than 20, were shot and killed at Leon last Monday after having their tongues cut out, for participating in an alleged Catholic uprising there. Six others, it says, were executed.

The paper in an editorial condemns the "waste of blood" in Mexico, abuse of the death penalty and "informal executions."

Moves to End Strife.

WASHINGTON, Jan 14 — (By the Associated Press.)—Peace appeals and other moves looking toward re-establishment of tranquil conditions in Nicaragua and more cordial relations between the United States and Mexico have developed both here and abroad and have served at least to temper the tense atmosphere surrounding the Central American situation by supplanting talk of possible war.

That the United States inaugurate a campaign of peace and "abolish the idea of force" in dealing with the Central American nations was urged in an address in the senate yesterday by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee.

Dispatches from Costa Rica say that liberal and conservative residents there have set up a committee to aid President Jiminez of that country, in working for peace in Nicaragua where the American-recognized president, Adolfo Diaz, is opposed in warfare by Juan B. Sacasa, liberal, with Mexican recognition.

They are expected to ask the contending factions whether they would agree to peace negotiations and accept Ramirez Caledron, former minister to the United States as a compromise candidate for president.

President Jiminez already had offered his services to mediate the Nicaraguan dispute, which, he says, have been accepted by Sacasa. The American state department announced yesterday that it approved of the Costa Rican move and hoped it would be successful.

Story Says Arms Sent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—The New York World today tells of a Nicaraguan gun running expedition which it says, apparently was conceived and executed in the United States and made possible with American money

Two hundred thousand dollars' worth of arms and munitions and the steam trawler Foam were purchased in New York and Philadelphia last summer, says The World, by Dr. T. S. Waca, representative in the United States of Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, opponent of Adolfo Diaz recognized by the United States as president of Nicaragua.

The munitions, says The World, were divided into two shipments and disguised in piano boxes and in crates that bore the marks of agricultural machinery, were sent to El Paso and San Diego.

Dr Waca, in Philadelphia, admitted having purchased the Foam, but denied all knowledge of rifles on her, or with having taken part in any transaction involving the purchase of arms or ammunition for use in Nicaragua

On August 12, says The World, munitions that had arrived overland at Puerto, Mexico, were transferred to the Foam by twenty-five soldiers. One of the officers says The World, was understood by the sailors to be a Mexican The ship then hauled down the American flag and raised the Nicaraguan colors while the soldiers swore allegiance to the Nicaraguan flag. The American sailors were prevented from leaving the vessel.

CONE INVOLVED IN ARGUMENT

His Saunders county namesake, Representative W. R. Mitchell, was equally ignorant as to its origin, and nobody else volunteered any information.

The bill was turned over to C. J Mitchell and will not be printed nor given any consideration.

Discussion over Roll Calls.

The first business of the forenoon session was a report from the rules committee, of which Speaker Rodman is chairman, recommending that roll calls be had on ordinary questions only when demanded by five members, the required number being two under the old rules.

Mr. Cone promptly objected to this and charged that it was a departure from all parliamentary rules and from the practice followed in the congress of the United States and the British parliament. He made a plea for "pitiless publicity" in order that the taxpayers of Nebraska might know what their representatives were doing.

"All we've done during the last few days has been to answer roll calls on fool questions that didn't mean anything one way or the other," retorted Mr. Coulter "Why should we let two men continue to block the proceedings of this house. On any matter of real importance there will always be five ready to ask for a roll call and get it, but if we are going to call the roll on every dinky motion that is presented we will be here until the first of July. This rule will affect nobody except members who are seeking personal notoriety."

Messrs McMaster, O'Malley, and others defended the rule, while Mr. Porter, speaking as a new member, sided with Cone, declaring he wanted time to "catch onto what is being done here"

Says Lawyers Run Things.

"We don't want a little bunch of lawyers running things through before we find out what they are," Porter asserted. "So far as wasting time goes, we've been doing hardly anything else but that for several days."

Speaker Rodman was about to call for a standing vote, when Cone demanded a roll call and Axtell seconded his request. The vote was 71 to 21 for the new rule.

Wants Bank Suit Expedited.

Mr. Rundle offered a motion, which was adopted without opposition, requesting the United States court to expedite proceedings in the suit brought by several Omaha banks that are resisting payment of taxes under the new law passed in 1925, and to bring about an early disposition of the litigation

The O'Gara resolution offered on Thursday, authorizing the rules committees of the house and the senate to consider and report on methods for scanning bills before and after their passage ,for the purpose of eliminating errors and contradictions, was amended on Mr Burke's motion so as to give the committees full power to act If they see fit to employ an attorney or other helper, they have the authority to do so, so far as the house is concerned.

Mr Davis sent up a motion to have the sergeant-at-arms collect 50 cents from each member for a "flower fund" to be used as occasion may justify during the session in remembering solons who are ill or in case of bereavement in their families. It did not come to a vote and will be taken up later

The house has one bill on general file, two have been received from the printer and are ready to be considered by standing committees; and half a dozen more will be delivered Saturday Next week the regular schedule of committee meetings will begin, and the house will have bills to work on each day.

Move to Clear Southern Soldiers

In an attempt to clear the names of southern soldiers whose names appear in the war department files on unsigned documents as deserters from the Confederate army, Senator Claude Swanson and Representative R. down the eastern slopes of the Rockies

The most severe cold was in the area between the two storms, but low temperatures spread with the snow from Canada to the gulf and the weather bureau would promise no great rise before Sunday, if then

More snow was in prospect today for midwestern and southwestern states, where a record fall for the winter in many places already had seriously interfered with travel and communication.

Central Illinois was buried deep with close to twenty inches of snow on the ground in some localities, and in Chicago an army of 3,000 labored all night to keep traffic lines open Three men were killed while attempting to keep traffic moving and two others died of exposure

Snow Caves In Roof.

At Gary, Ind., a street car careened from snow hidden rails and crashed into a bus, severely injuring several persons, and in Chicago the weight of the fall caved in a garage roof and hurt four men.

The southwest shivered in the unseasonable weather and prepared for zero temperatures in the wake of storms that left snow from an inch to six inches deep. Virtually all of Kansas, northern Oklahoma and Missouri was blanketed with considerable depths

Lower thermometer readings were promised the middlewest today and snow laden skies and low if not extreme temperatures, were forecast through the central states. The storm center itself swept down the St. Lawrence valley to give the corn belt a breathing spell before the arrival of the new disturbance advancing eastward from the Pacific coast

27 Below in Minnesota.

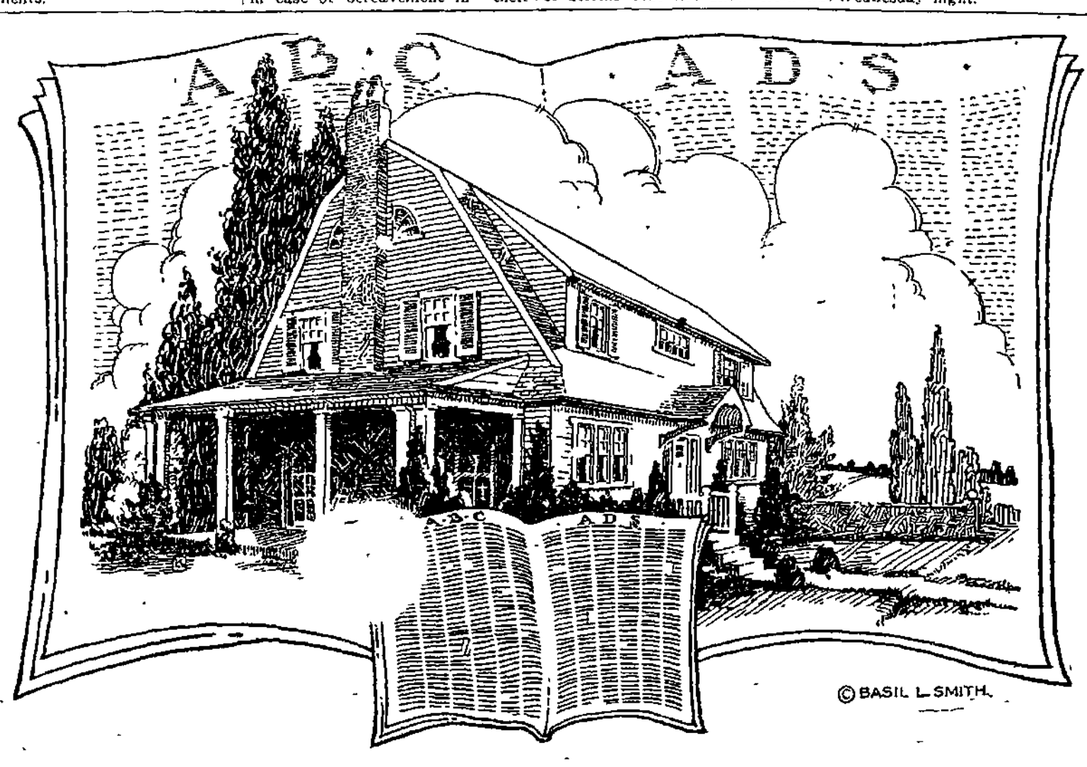

ST. PAUL, Jan 14—(By the Associated Press.)—Northwest states felt the renewed blast of winter today with temperature ranging from zeero at Yankton, S D., to 27 below at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border

MILWAUKEE.—(AP)—Coal gas fumes cost the lives of two men when William Collins, 41, was overcome in a cinder pit at the Seaman Body Co. plant Thursday and three others went to his rescue. The dead are: Collins, 41, Des Plaines, Ill., and John Galko, 41, Milwaukee.

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—Counsel for Lita Grey Chaplin announced Thursday that when the marital battle between the comedian and his wife reaches court Mildred Harris McGovern, Chaplin's first wife, would be called as a witness in support of his present wife. Mrs. McGovern is living in Santa Monica, near here.

PARIS.—(AP)—A band of thieves, alleged to be wanted in a half-dozen countries, including the United States, for a series of international robberies, was arrested Thursday by the Paris police. They were Edward Charles Stanley, his wife, Claire Morgan Stanley, known under a dozen aliases, and an alleged accomplice, Dudley Solin, an Englishman. The police said Stanley was wanted in New York, San Francisco, Zurich, Amsterdam, London and many French cities, especially on the Riviera, where the band is charged with having committed daring robberies.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A favorable report on a senate bill authorizing the shipping board to extend its construction loan fund to the $125,000,000 which the merchant marine act of 1920 contemplated was ordered Thursday by the senate commerce committee. The loan fund, from which private shipping interests might borrow, had never been brought to its authorized figures, Commissioners Benson and Hill of the board testified, because of legal technicalities. The fund is derived from proceeds of sales of ships and other monies and since activity was expected in building of ships by Americans it was deemed desirable to extend it.

DES MOINES.—(AP)—Gov. John Hammill Thursday requested the Iowa legislature to revise the highway laws to facilitate the building of a state road system and to provide additional funds by increasing the gasoline tax from 2 cents to 3 cents a gallon. A $100,000,000 road bond issue probably will come before the present assembly. The governor recommended closer supervision of banks, with more frequent examinations as a means of curbing the series of bank closings in this state. The governor is opposed to a depositors' guaranty law, a bill for which already has been filed in the house.

PERU, Ill.—(AP)—All but two of 360 men employed in the Jonesville mine escaped Tuesday when fire broke out in the underground stables of the workings. The other two men escaped later. The flames were confined to the stables section of the mine when firmen from La Salee and Mine men walled off that part of the workings to prevent a spread of the fire.

CALEXICO, Cal.—(AP)—A heavy earthquake shock here Thursday shook windows and rattled dishes but did no serious damage. A number of residents rushed from their homes. The shock was followed by a series of lighter vibrations lasting several seconds. Three minor tremors also were felt earlier. Reports here said that the shock, described as the heaviest since the major earthquake disturbance of damage here and in Mexicali, across the international border, was also felt in El Centro.

TIFFIN, Ohio—(AP)—Mrs. Della S. Baird, 74, said to be one of the wealthiest women in northwestern Ohio, died here Thursday, leaving an estate of several millions.

EASTRINGTON, Yorkshire, Eng.—(AP)—Seventy-three years ago, Thomas Poulter, a farm hand of this district, ran away with a neighboring farmer's daughter and married her in spite of the opposition of her parents, who thought he could never support a wife on his meager pay. But he did, and recently the couple, hale and hearty despite their 96 years, had a party to celebrate the anniversary of their wedding. With them were seven sons and daughters, the eldest over 70 and the youngest 54.

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Northwestern university's basketball manager and two Varsity substitutes are among thirty-five members of the Delta Upsilon fraternity quarantined today after it was found that a visitor to the frat house had become ill with spinal meningitis.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after takin; according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Advertisement.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Rheumatism is easier to avaoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually setting in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

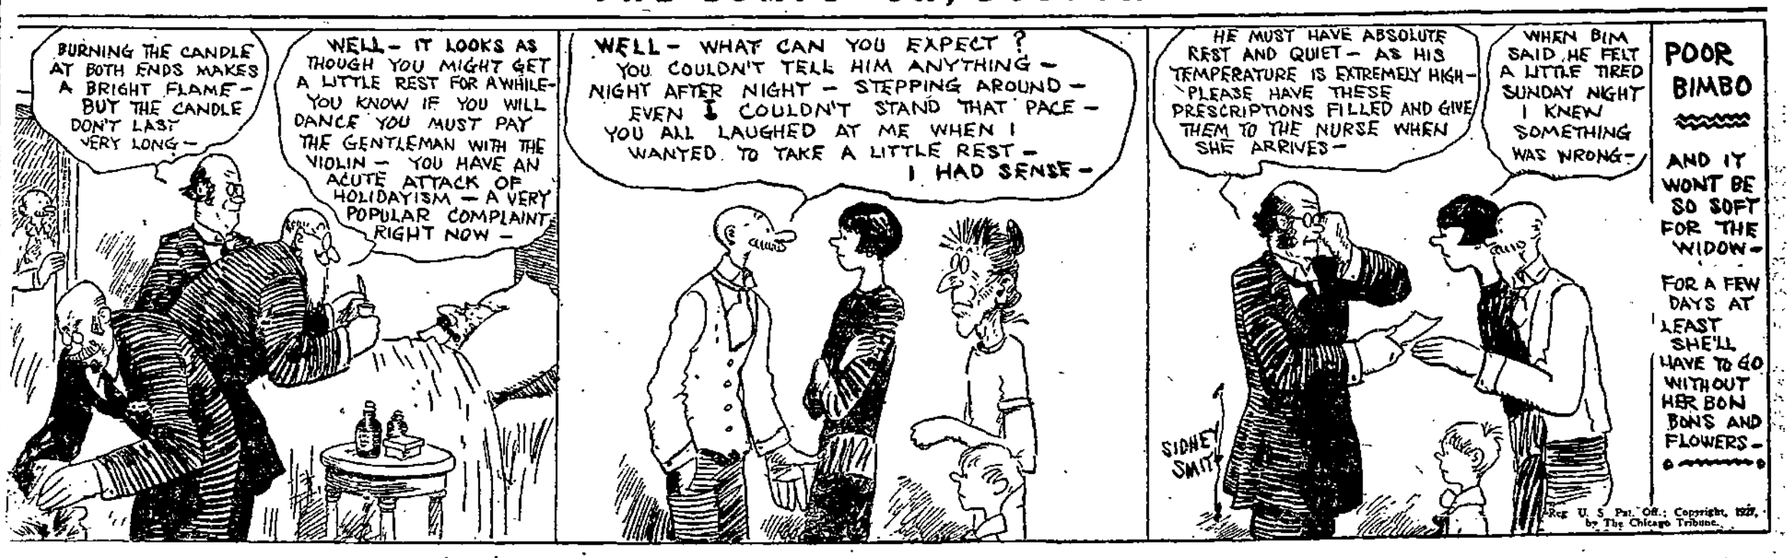

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. —Advertisement.

Wildcat Declares Readiness to Battle in Omaha

Brother Clyde Takes Rap At Small Fry Challengers

Wildcat's Manager Gives Notice That "Ace" Is Willing to Accommodate Ambitious Omaha Battlers, Provided He Gets a Substantial Guarantee.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Business of broad-siding challenges at Ace Hudkins, Nebraska's wildcat fighter, today provoked a torrid retort by his brother-manager, Clyde. In response to defis hurled at the wildcat's head by Morrie Schlaifer, king of Omaha's colony of tin-eared gentry, Sailor Liston and Royal Coffman, Council Bluffs, Ia., aspirant for fistic fame. Brother Clyde vaulted over the ropes to announce that any one of Morrie, Royal or the Sailor may have a whirl at Ace in an Omaha ring—provided the promoter makes it worth while to the fighting member of the Hudkins tribe.

Small Fry Challenges.

"These small fry challenges ordinarily would be beneath our notice," Brother Clyde proclaimed today, "but the Omaha public apparently wants to see Ace go in an Omaha ring, so we stand ready to meet the demand half way.

"The funny side of the situation is that when Ace was matched against Pat Corbett in Lincoln, an Omaha fight writer cracked wise and published the statement that we had picked an easy mark. Facts of the case are that Corbett was anything but easy, yet the wisecracker didn't care for the facts. The big idea with the Omaha writer was to knock the Lincoln boy and his home town fight.

Guarantee of $3,000.

"While Schlaifer has seen his best days and Coffman is a youngster without an outside chance against Ace, we'll meet either of the pair in an Omaha bout on one condition, which is that the promoter guarantee us $3,000 for our end. That, of course, includes Liston.

"We have a big shot in sight in New York, where Ace will meet the winner of the Dundee-Roberts bout. A New York engagement means big money for us, but if any Omaha promoter actually believes that either Schlaifer or Coffman is able to give Ace an argument, I'll make the match at once on the $3,000 guarantee basis and sign to put on the fight before we go east.

Clyde Ready to Sign.

"If the ballyhoo on behalf of Schlaifer or Coffman is real goods, not conversation, let a substantial promoter come forward with a guarantee and it won't take long to do the business."

Brother Clyde admitted Friday that he wasn't absolutely sure of landing an engagement for Ace to meet the Dundee-Roberts winner. He explained that if Dundee is the New York victor, then Ace will go east soon to mix with the Italian welterweight. Dundee, he said, has an established reputation, whereas Roberts never has displayed his goods in New York and must win at least another battle before he can earn a rating as a drawing card.

In Case Roberts Wins.

A Roberts victory over Dundee may mean, therefore, that Ace and Clyde may stick around home several weeks while waiting for Roberts to build himself up in the estimation of the Gotham bugs. Meantime, Ace will go through with his Jan 20 engagement in Kansas City, Kans., where he will exchange punches with Battling Levinsky of Bakersfield, Cal., and await favorable action by any Omaha promoter having the desire and the lucre to put up that $3,000 guarantee. Still another possibility is that Brother Clyde may book the wildcat for a February fight in Lincoln.

Ace Bars No Welter.

It is conceded by the wildcat's manager that Ace will do his future battling in the welterweight division—that he has grown out of the lightweight brigade. Ace scaled 149 for his recent fuss with Pat Corbett, but Brother Clyde declared today that the wildcat can easily make the grade at 147 or 145, at which weight he draws no line.

DUNCAN DECIDES HIS TRIP FIZZLE

Dempsey Agrees to Take On Winner of Rickard Tournament.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey has yielded to the demand of Tex Rickard that he submit his title comeback hopes to at least one test fight, according to the former champion's eastern representative, Leonard Sachs.

"Dempsey will string with Rickard," said Sachs in announcing that the dethroned king had abandoned his attitude of opposition to any bout other than a return match with Gene Tunney. Sachs said Jack would get in shape to take on the survivor of Rickard's elimination series, involving Jack Sharkey, Jimmy Maloney, Paul Berlenbach, Paolino Uzcudin and possibly Jack Delaney.

Although Rickard has held several conferences with Delaney's manager, Pete Reilly, terms have not yet been reached for Delaney's participation in the race for the next heavyweight championship battle.

Tex Drives Sharp Bargain.

Rickard will insist that the next challenger agree to conditions under which the Madison Square Garden promoter will have exclusive rights to his services in the event that he lifts the crown from Tunney.

"I'm not going to be caught again' says Tex, referring to the difficulty he had in lining up Tunney. "The man who gets the shot with Tunney will have to agree to box for me. I did not start this way of doing business, but if others do it, I must protect my interests."

Bass Undergoes Operation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—An operation on the nose of Benny Bass will prevent the Philadelphia boxer fulfilling his return featherweight engagement in New York on February 4 with Red Chapman of Boston. Tex Rickard has announced Chapman lost the first heat of the duel between them when he was disqualified for fouling Benny in the first round.

SPREADS HINTS AT NEW SCANDAL

Chicago Newspaper Has Idea the 1922 Series Was "Fixed."

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune today printed a news story saying that Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, has under way an investigation of the 1922 world series in which the New York Giants defeated the New York Yankees.

Landis refused to comment either upon the story or alleged investigation, and Ban Johnson, president of the American league, said he knew nothing of such an investigation.

Series Won By Giants.

The series was won by the New York Giants in five games," says the Tribune. "The most unusual feature of the series was the second contest. The Yankees and Giants had played ten innings to a 3 to 3 tie when Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness. The 36,000 spectators disagreed with the umpire's decision, protesting that there was plenty of light to finish the game. Commissioner Landis later ruled that, in view of the fans' dissatisfaction, the game's receipts, amounting to $120,000, would be turned over to charity."

Umpire Not Summoned.

Hildebrand is understood to be in San Francisco. So far as could be learned today he has not been summoned to Chicago.

Other points in the Tribune's story are:

"Apparent dumb playing by the Yankees and good pitching by the Giants; impotence of Ruth at bat; bad breaks for Joe Bush, who pitched and lost two games, and Carl Mays' blowup in the fifth inning and removal three innings later."

Landis Enters Denial.

CHICAGO, Jan 14.—(I. N. S.)—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, today flatly denied published reports that he was investigating the 1922 world series between the New York Giants and Yankees.

"My first information on the subject came today when I read in the papers that I was investigating the series," said Judge Landis. "I am getting tired denying groundless rumors."

Judge Landis Busy As Ever In Chasing Baseball Spotlight

BY FRANK O. KLEIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. — Baseball Commissioner Landis is unmasked and his big farce, "The Investigation of the 1917 Scandal," is exploded as a result of the unearthing of baseball and court records and an exhaustive investigation, which shows:

1—That Commissioner Landis heard the evidence and acquitted all the players involved in 1921.

2—That the Chicago Tribune paid for the evidence of Swede Risberg and Chick Gandil and inveigled Landis into the investigation in order to make its stories good.

3—That Commissioner Landis saw a new opportunity to emblazon his name on the front pages of the country, caused four telegraph wires to be installed in his office so that the press wouldn't miss it, and was determined to make this his one grand gesture as the "saviour of baseball."

Rehash of Old Stuff.

Here are the facts in the case, showing what a travesty the "public" hearing was and how it was employed as a clever publicity stunt.

In 1921, just before the playing season opened, Landis summoned Players Dauss, James, Mitchell and Stanage of the Detroit club to Chicago and had Players Collins and Schalk of the Chicago White Sox appear before him to tell what they knew concerning a story in circulation regarding the payment of Detroit players by the Chicago White Sox. They gave their testimony, which, with the charges and information against them, was put into a transcript. No one knew this transcript was in existence until it was requisitioned by the state's attorney of Cook county in connection with the White Sox scandal case. It absolved the players of any blame establishing the money was given the Detroit players for beating Boston. At that time is was stated to have amounted to $800. Catcher Stanage at the time admitted he received $100. Charged with having been given $200, he asserted he only got $100 and that somebody must have been holding out on him. This transcript was later turned back to Landis and was not included in the grand jury reports and confessions, which were later stolen.

That "New" Scandal.

Thus it was evident that Commissioner Landis had heard the story, investigated it and had rendered his verdict in favor of the players under suspicion. Following the Cobb-Speaker expose, however, the Chicago Tribune received word that Risberg had a new scandal to expose. Don Maxwell of Tribune staff, got in touch with Risberg and for a consideration, said to have been in the neighborhood of $500, gave his version, which tended to substantiate the earlier charges against the White Sox. Buck Weaver, it is understood, also was offered pay by the Tribune for his story, but refused to do business.

After Weaver failed to come through and Risberg's story had been broadcasted, Risberg is said to have telegraphed Gandil that the Tribune was paying easy money for it and for Gandil to get in touch with the Chicago paper, which Gandil did, receiving in reply an offer in money for his tale, too. A Tribune representative met Gandil, kept him under cover for a day and after his story had been published, brought him before Landis.

Back In the Spotlight.

The commissioner, by some reasoning which is not clear, saw in the incident a chance to glorify himself and to drown the criticism aroused by his handling of the Cobb-Speaker case. He intimated to the Associated Press he was not averse to its installing four wires in his office to carry the news of the hearing to the world and saw to it that ample accommodations were given the newspaper men. Then he had the accuser and accused in the room, put each in the witness box and of course the accusers accused and the accused denied. Then he waited a week to make his decision. He gave no intimation that he had reviewed the case over five years previously and had rendered a decision.

Great and Glorious Judge.

The gathering, however, served to

Winner in Line for Whirl at Pete Latzo's Crown

Dundee In Joust Tonight With Battler From Coast

New York Italian Seeks Revenge on Western Welter Who Once Laid Him Low in First Round Knockout; Winner Rated as Contender for Pete Latzo's Title.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—It will be Ketchel and Papke, Gans and Frank Erne and John Dundee and Jackson all over again at the Garden tonight—just a return engagement of an age-old act in which the man who has been knocked out attempts to prove that he can come back to beat the gent who knocked him. They never come back, according to the old-oaken, moss covered bromide, but it doesn't apply to Stanley Ketchel, Joe Gans and rubber checks, and it may be that Joe Dundee is immune, too.

Anyhow, Joseph tonight is scheduled to frolic again with Eddie Roberts of Tacoma, Wash. It is supposed to go 10 rounds, but you never can tell about those things. As I remember it, the last Roberts-Dundee match was scheduled for 10 rounds and didn't last one, Joseph accepting a right hand full on the nutmeg in the first minute of play.

Bank Rolls Suffered.

The punch ruined half the bootblacks and fruit peddlers between here and San Francisco and acted as a temporary injunction restraining Joseph from further conducting himself as the official challenger for the welterweight championship. The title in question might very well ride with the result of tonight's fight, although neither man is a champion—yet.

The idea, it seems, is rampant or something, that Pete Latzo no longer can make the welterweight limit of 147 pounds without holding his breath and, when you get a champion in that predicament, he is not long for this life, so to speak.

Rallying Around Dundee.

The boys are rallying around Dundee for tonight and the odds are 7 to 5 that he will win. Apparently they are imbued with the idea that that Pacific coast knockout was tinctured with iodine and just didn't count. They further have achieved much solace by recalling that Ketchel returned to knock Papke into the right field bleachers and that Gans, stopped in 12 rounds by Erne, later was able to reverse the feature in exactly one.

Why they should confound Joe Dundee with Gans and Ketchel is a bit beyond my feeble resources. From what I have seen of Joseph, he is a fair fighter who might become champion, provided no one else is better.

Rising Young Man.

They say he is one of the rising young men of the profession and he may need to be if Roberts anoints him with another right.

Most of the pro-Dundee crowd support their guess on tonight's number by declaring that Joseph always was a slow starter. Any how, but would hasten himself this time. In other words, they are looking for a Charley Paddock performance from Ping Bodie. My guess? A fair enough fight, with Dundee winning on points.

Chicago Rivals to Clash.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Tickets were in high demand here today for tonight's 10-round bout between "Shuffle" Callahan and Wolcott Langford, Chicago middleweights, long bitter rivals. This is their first meeting.

Captain Carmody Always On Spot

By SOL METZGER.

Captain Carmody of the Yale five is an example in guard play, as he holds closely to the principle that a guard should always place himself between the opponent he is covering and the basket he is striving to reach. Certain it is that if every player can keep between his opponent and the basket, the opposing five would have great difficulty in getting a shot for the basket that is not blocked or rushed so aggressively as to make the shot untrue.

Note the difference in methods in the illustration. In the upper panel the guard has driven in between the dribbler and the basket. That offense is most certainly checked. In the lower illustration the guard has let his opponent get ahead of him. The result is this opponent dribbles to the basket and has an easy shot or he is in a position to pass to a teammate in a better position to score.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The second week of Missouri Valley conference basketball found seven of the ten teams scheduled for games tonight and tomorrow night in the southern end of the circuit. Four of the five contests this week are of titular bearing.

Iowa State's quintet, which defeated the Oklahoma Aggies but lost to Oklahoma university at Ames last week, was matched against the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan tonight. The Iowans were to move to Lawrence tomorrow night to meet the powerful Kansas university squad which triumphed over Washington university last week as a step toward its sixth consecutive Valley championship.

Missouri was to meet Drake tonight at Columbia, while Nebraska was slated for a non-titular contest with Washington at St. Louis. The Drake team invades St. Louis to play Washington tomorrow night.

Oklahoma rested on its victories over Grinnell and Iowa State last week; while the Oklahoma Aggies and Grinnell also failed to register on the conference slate this week.

BETTING SHARPS RISK THEIR CASH

Gamblers Get Down Coin No One Will Complete Catalina Swim.

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., Jan. 14.—(I.N.S.)—Every one of the 153 contestants entered in the $40,000 Catalina swim was quartered today on Catalina island, getting read for what is expected to be one of the greatest swimming carnivals on record. Included among the entries are some of the most famous paddlers in the world. The race is scheduled to get under way between 10 and 11 o'clock Saturday morning from the northeast Isthmus of Catalina island. The straightest line from this point to the mainland is approximately 20 miles long.

Gamblers Bet Their Coin.

Gambling gentry here and in Los Angeles were beginning to place a little money at odds that there will not be an entry who will finish the jaunt and the bookmakers were laying 15 to 1 and even 20 to 1 that Norman Ross, Chicago; Leo Purcell, San Francisco, or Mark Wheeler, Los Angeles, would not be the first to finish.

Of the women swimmers of note, Mrs. Lottie Schoemmel was the favorite to finish at least second to the entire field, in which case she would win the $15,000 second prize. This second prize, however, goes to the second swimmer only in the event that this fortunate person is a woman.

Rich Prizes at Stake.

First prize calls for $25,000, be the winner either man or woman. An additional prize of $15,000 will be paid to the first woman swimmer who finishes the race.

Persons who know Catalina channel, however, do not think a man or a woman has the slightest chance of conquering its turbulent, icy cold waters. If the water is the least bit more rough than usual, they say that the swimmers will become so seasick they will be unable to continue.

Sullivan and Toth.

Experts give Henry Sullivan and Charley Toth, of Boston, two men who have conquered the English channel, a slight chance to make the grade. Both are accustomed to swimming in cold water, but they are unusually slow swimmers.

Advice of Wrigley to spare no effort in protecting the lives of the marathon swimmers will be carried out to the letter by Mrs. Schoemmel, New York's champion swimmer.

Sharp Lookout for Sharks.

In the dory accompanying Mrs. Schoemmel will be two expert riflemen to keep a sharp watch for sharks. These man-eaters are not frequent in the channel, but Mrs. Schoemmel is not taking any chances.

WARD SWAPPED TO CHICAGO SOX

Yankees Trade Guardian Of Second Sack For Two Players.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Aaron Ward, Yankee second baseman, has become a member of the White Sox as a result of a deal between the New York and Chicago American league clubs.

John Grabowski, utility catcher, and Ray Moreheart, utility infielder and former Western leaguer, were sent to the Yankees in exchange for Ward, with no money involved in the transaction.

Dodgers Bid For Hafey.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Chick Hafey, outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, may take the trail to the metropolis broken by his former manager, Rogers Hornsby. Baseball men heard today that the Brooklyn Robins were attempting to swing a deal for Hafey, offering Catcher Mickey O'Neil in exchange.

Ty Sticks to Demands For Vindication

DETROIT, Jan. 14.—(I.N.S.—J. O. Murfin, attorney for Ty Cobb, today denied reports from Chicago indicating that Cobb and Tris Speaker would drop their fight for vindication.

"I won't be rushed by Commissioner Kenesaw Landis into any precipitate action and I'll vindicate Ty Cobb eventually, no matter what Landis or anybody else thinks," Murfin said.

Speaker Abandons Fight.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 14.—(I. N. S.)—Tris Speaker today virtually abandoned his fight for vindication by Commissioner K. M. Landis of charges that he was implicated in a "thrown" baseball game.

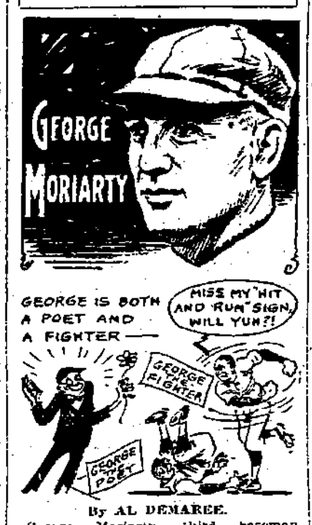

This was indicated in an announcement by William H. Boyd, Speaker's attorney, who declared that for the time being, at least, nothing further would be done in the matter, in the hope that Landis would voluntarily absolve Tris of the charges.

"We confidently expect that in due time, Judge Landis will do the fair thing," Boyd told International News Service. "We believe that at the proper time the commissioner will clear up the whole matter.

Knocks Them In Verse Or With Fists

By AL DEMAREE.

George Moriarty, third baseman, fighter, poet, umpire and now manager of the Detroit American league baseball team, is one of the most unique characters of the national game.

Moriarty, when he was a star third baseman on the Detroit club, probably was the best boxer and all-round fighting man in the major leagues. He is als oa poet and writer of real ability and has written the verses of some of the most popular song hits of the last ten years.

A few years ago Moriarty contracted with a newspaper syndicate to turn out a poem a day for one year. George kept it up for 200 days before he found out that serving two masters, baseball and poetry, was harder than he had reckoned with, and he had to give it up temporarily.

Moriarty, when he first started umpiring, pulled a classic on Ruth, when the Babe was pitching for Boston. Ruth was having a bad day and claimed George, who was working back of the plate, was missing strikes on him and was keeping him continually in the hole.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan 14.

Influenced by reports of big shipments from the southern hemisphere and by increased pressure of offerings from there, wheat tended downward today. Vessel room for more than 76,000,000 bushels of grain to be exported from Argentina in January and February was announced having been chartered. Speculators here were assiduous sellers of wheat especially in the late dealings, but around $1.39 for May there was a good class of buying.

What closed unsettled, ⅝ to ⅞c decline to ¼c advance oats ⅛ to ½c off and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 7 to 55c.

An outstanding feature in wheat today was the fact that Argentine and Australian shipments together this week were figured at 6,153,000 bushels, compared with only 3,871,000 bushels last week. Besides, advices were at hand indicating that wheat exports from Argentine during January and February will average at 6,000,000 a week.

Persistent scantiness of arrivals of wheat at domestic primary points, however, encouraged buying in some quarters. Today's primary receipts 804,000 bushels, although larger than a week ago, were well under those of a year back. A fair amount of export business in United States wheat over night was acknowledged.

Corn showed fair strength with May selling above 82 cents at one time, but eased later on account of profit taking. Reports of an improvement in cash demand—and of snow throughout the west—were factors early. Country offerings to arrive were larger, with 160,000 bushels of November yellow booked to arrive at five cents under May for March shipment. Argentine exports for week aggregated 6,492,000 bushels against 4,104,000 bushels last year.

Oats were easier, responsive to the action of other grain ½ ¼ ¾

STOCK MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan 14.

The stock market experienced a sinking spell this morning when call money was marked up from 4 to 4½ per cent. The higher rate followed the calling of about $15,000,000 in loans, but was generally regarded as temporary. Early declines ran from 1 to 5 points on selling which appeared to be largely of professional origin and presumably inspired, in part, by the failure of operators for the rise to attract a public following.

The chief business developments of the day were the announcement of plans for a gigantic northwest railroad merger, advances in Pennsylvania crude and copper wire prices and increasing inquiries for steel products, all of which were bullish in character.

Prompt sales of the $25,000,000 Argentine government bond offering testified the continuance of a good investment demand for securities in the stock market, however, investors were content to allow prices to dip rather than to reach up and bid for stocks. The market steadied during the fourth hour when recoveries in several issues ran from 1 to 2 points.

Stock prices moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits at the opening of today's market. DuPont opened a point lower and fractional initial recessions took place in Baldwin, Studebaker, United States Steel common and several other popular industrials. Oils again changed hands in large volume with the main tendency in that group upward. Commercial Solvents B broke 3 points on the first sale. Colorado & Southern opened 1½ points higher on buying presumably influenced by the announcement of plans for the new Northwestern railroad merger.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Bulls in the Chicago pit have been buying corn and the effect on the market is showing. Heavy snows over the belt will hold up movement of country stocks for a few days an dno great volue of receipts is expected even then.

Buying in rye is now chiefly against actual shipping business. With the continent looking for export offerings, the grain has reached a healthy basis.

A private agency suggests that there is a persistent movement of corn in Canada, advising that the dominion is being supplied from interior points in India and elsewhere.

Activity for the corn borer in Ontario is pointed to by some as forecasting a permanent market there for United States corn.

A cable advises that a duty on exportations of wheat and rye from Poland is imminent. Such a move would have a major importance for North American rye, Poland being generally counted on to supply continental demands.

Tilden after holding the national tennis championship for six successive years, was defeated by Tenri Cochet of France. The second happened when Bobby Jones, after reaching the final round of the national amateur golf tourney, was defeated by George Von Elm and thus prevented from holding the title for three years in a row. The third came when Jack Dempsey lost his world's heavy-weight championship to Gene Tunney.

LAY PLANS FOR A SMITH FIGHT

Republicans Will Counter Attempt To Bar Illinois Man at Door.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Efforts of democrats to stop Senator-designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois, at the senate door when he comes here next week to present his credentials will be countered by the republicans with a motion to swear him in pending an investigation by election committee.

Democrats want an investigation before the senate seats Smith, who was appointed by Governor Small to fill out the unexpired term by the late Senator McKinley, republican, after he had been elected to replace McKinley beginning next March 4.

The inquiry, which is certain to be conducted by the elections committee, will go largely into expenditures in Smith's primary campaign, which already has been investigated by the campaign funds committee.

"The probable procedure upon the presentation of Mr. Smith's credentials will be a motion by Senator Reed of Missouri, to refer the credentials to the election committee," said Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader.

"If a subsititute motion is presented looking to the immediate seating of Mr. Smith, the senate probably, after comparatively short debate, will be forced to a record vote.

"My impression is that the motion to refer the credentials will prevail."

CHARGES WIFE, ACTRESS, IS WED TO THREE MEN

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Joseph Dresdner, a merchant of Long Island City, N. Y., today made complaint to Judge Frank A. Boettner, that his wife, who he said is a prominent Broadway actress, is married to three men. Judge Boettner accepted the complaint for consideration by the grand jury.

Dresdner said he married the actress in Newark last August and that she gave the name of Ruth C. Carter. In October, when his wife was sailing for London, he alleges that he was introduced to two men at the dock, who, investigation disclosed, were husbands by earlier marriages.

He named these two as Raymond N. Evans, an attorney of Lynn, Mass., and John G. Tedd, a former government employe.

THE WEATHER

A great area of unusually high pressure overlies the Missouri valley and the eastern slope of the Rockies, attended by clear and cold weather, but not so cold as might be expected with such a pressure area. Pressure is falling in the extreme northwest. There was light snow last night on the eastern slope of the Rockies and in the northern plains, and snow or rain in most of the country east of the Mississippi river, which is being followed by clearing and colder weather.

THOMAS A. BLAIR, Meteorologist.

It's Hard To Lose Some Valuable Article—

You bet it is! It's pretty nearly impossible when you put a little Star Lost ad to work at finding it again.

You may think you've lost something, but the chances are that it won't stay lost for very long after you tell your trouble to a Star ad taker.

The thing about these little ads that make them so particularly useful and efficient is that the honest finders of the city have formed the habit of watching the Lost and Found column of this paper for the names of recent losers.

If what you lose falls into the hands of an honest person, you can get in touch with him or her in this way almost immediately. And almost everybody's honest!

Next time you lose something of value—call B1234 and ask for an ad taker.

SAYS NEBRASKA MOVES FORWARD

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Jan. 14.—Speaking before the annual dinner meeting of the Falls City chamber of commerce Thursday Frank D. Tomson of Lincoln said in part:

"We are only a stride from the pioneers who made the Nebraska of the early days. Yet, we have been moving forward steadily. Nebraska has changed from a virgin prairie to one of the greatest agricultural regions on the continent, favored by natural resources of a diversified character, yet all agricultural. In the matter of quantity of production we annually stand near the head of the long list of agricultural states. We have seen much development, yet our greatest development is still to come.

"We are pioneering still in the matter of applied science, in the matter of crop selection, in the matter of trade relationship, and practices, in education, in fact in nearly every phase of our activities. We are beginning to understand the necessity of balanced progress and prosperity, to understand the interlocking relationship of our varied industries and the fundamental importance of our greatest industry—agriculture—to all the rest.

"Some day Nebraska will be known as one of the foremost orchard sections, and the rolling hills overlooking the Missouri river will be turned into vineyards comparable with the world's best, and your city is favored by its location in reference to this development.

"Bear this in mind, that out of the hardships and the sacrifices of our brother pioneers of yesterday have come the educational advantages, the trade opportunities, the improved living environment of the present, and out of their experiences during days of depression and discouragement have come the constructive purposes and programs of this day, and it is for you as an organized community body and as individuals to provide for this and future generations an equally constructive program, that your days may not have been lived in vain.

"Your community has from the earliest days been a conspicuous factor in Nebraska's progress. May its influence upon the fine citizenship of the state never grow less."

Students Willing To Be "Stung" for Medical Purposes

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Fifty young men and women students at the Homeopathic Medical college have volunteered to be artificially "stung' by bees and spiders in an attempt to determine whether the venom can be made to serve some medicinal purpose.

Members of the squad, with notebook and pencil, will record the movement and physical effects of the poisons as they are injected, while experts make careful observation.

While the layman probably never has noticed any beneficial result from an encounter with a bee or a spider, the scientists at the college hold a belief that the poisons of the insects may be used as a remedy for forms of kidney disease.

Small amounts of the poisons will be given at first and the subjects are expected to be able to continue attendance at classes. With the coming of the summer vacation, doses will be increased to such an extent that hospitalization may be necessary. The volunteers have signed waiveers freeing the institution from any responsibility for possible ill consequences.

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(AP)—The state supreme court Thursday granted a stay of execution for Rev Philip Goodwin, former American Catholic priest, convicted of the slaying of Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles bond broker, last year, near Santa Ana. Goodwin had been senteenced to be hanged today. He was granted a review of the case.

FOUR JUDGES IN NINE DAYS TIME

TABLE ROCK, Neb., Jan. 14.—Fawnee county has had four county judges in nine days. Judge H. H. Hawkins passed away Monday, January 3, and County Clerk Loch became acting county judge, under the statute. At noon on Thursday when Arthur M. Davis succeeded Mr. Loch as county clerk, he also automatically became acting county judge. On Friday afternoon the county commissioners appointed W. S. Potts to fill the unexpired term of Judge Hawkins, and Mr. Potts became the fourth county judge in a period of nine days.

Browning for separation from his young wife, "Peaches" Heenan Browning, when the hearing opens January 24, at Carmel, N. Y. NORRIS JURORS ARE FINALLY SELECTED

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Twelve married men, fathers of children, will sit in judgment on Dr. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist Baptist pastor, charged with murder for killing D. E. Chipps, lumberman at Forth Worth, last July.

After a day of threading its way through the Ku Klux Klan issue and the views of a retired Methodist preacher on the religious beliefs of a Baptist minister defendant, the trial reached the evidence stage with the completion of the jury late yesterday.

Two former members of the klan will sit on the jury. They were accepted after the state charged Dr. Norris was a member of the organization.

The Ku Klux Klan question came sharply to the fore in the examination of T. H. Tumey. Dayton Moses, defense attorney, protested against the state pursuing klan questions, declared "Dr. Norris is not now and never has been a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The state department was without confirmation last night of the report that Sacasa, liberal leader in the movement against the Diaz government in Nicaragua had decided to abandon his effort because of the attitude taken by the United States in landing naval forces in that country. It was obvious, however, that officials generally anticipated some such development in the near future and that Sacasa's departure from Nicaragua probably would be followed by peace conferences between the Diaz government and the liberals.

COMMITTEE VETOES COAL STRIKE BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The house commerce committee Thursday refused to report the Parker bill to give the executive branch of the government authority to act in coal strikes. The vote was 16 to 6.

The action was interpreted by Chairman Parker of the committee and the bill's author, as tabling all coal legislation for the session.

The measure, rejected after extended hearings, would have given the president, after a thirty day suspension of work in the coal fields authority to declare an emergency. The interstate commerce commission then would have been authorized to regulate coal shipments through issuance of priority shipment orders. The bureau of mines also would have been called upon to investigate causes of the strike and compile a report on its finding.

Representative Kendal, republican Pennsylvania, issued a statement saying that "the committee put its veto on government interference on legitimate business, the recommendation of the president to the contrary notwithstanding." President Coolidge suggested in his message to the present congress that the executive branch be given some authority to deal with emergencies in the coal fields.

GEORGE B. SHAW HANDS DEAN INGE LITERARY POSIES

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—George Gernard Shaw recently handed Dean Inge a literary bouquet which banished the gloom of that ecclesiastical dignitary for several days.

"I have a superior brain," said Shaw, leaning against the mantelpiece in the home of Lady Beecham, while talking to dinner guests, "but there is the greatest living writer in England," and he pointed to Dean Inge sitting in a corner.
